Point Values Fixed for Meat Rationing Coupons

HAMBURGER TO COMPETE FOR PUBLIC FAVOR

Ground Meat Will Take Fewer Stamps from Book Than Choice Cuts.

By IRVING PERLMETER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, March 24 — [illegible] of coupon values [illegible] Americans would [illegible] starting Monday, to [illegible] ration of 2 pounds of [illegible] pork or 3 1/5 pounds [illegible] per person per week [illegible].

[illegible] people will buy [illegible] they will want to use [illegible] the same coupons for butter, lard, cheese or canned fish. They will have 16 points to spend [illegible] at an average coupon [illegible] 8 points per pound for the whole group of foods.

A typical budget probably will [illegible] per person, two pounds of [illegible] plus perhaps a quarter [illegible] butter and a quarter pound of cheese. A whole pound of butter calls for eight points.

OPA said the "rations are relatively more liberal than the rations for processed foods," but the [illegible] will vary sharply in each family. Families that have liked and been able to afford to eat a lot of meat may find their rations only a fraction of their customary purchases, but in some of the poorest classes, the ration may exceed what families may be able to afford.

Affect Is Widespread

Compared with such things as gasoline and shoe rationing, the new program will affect the lives of Americans more than any other type of rationing undertaken so far. By Monday, about the only important unrationed foods in grocery stores will be milk, bread, cereals, preserves and fresh fruits and vegetables.

On the brighter side, the plan is designed to even up meat supplies—at least after it has been in operation a couple of weeks—and will help those localities which have had the most acute meat shortages.

The government said the new rationing was necessary to divide up a curtailed civilian supply because of heavy diversion of these foods to the armed services and lend-lease. Some packers and stock men have blamed the shortage on government interference with normal producing and marketing procedures.

Restaurants and other public eating places continue without customer coupons, but their overall food supplies are rationed and officials are considering legal limitations on portions. OPA officials stated people could not expect to supplement their home meat rations very much by dining out.

Only farmers are exempt, being authorized to eat as much as they desire of their own produce, although they must collect coupons if they sell any of it to outside consumers. Farmers also hope rationing will restrain wholesale and retail meat prices sufficiently to [illegible] an OPA proposal for reducing the prices of live meat animals.

Effective Monday Morning

The new point values were announced by the press by OPA without [illegible] volumes of explanatory matter and quiz sessions. The plan goes into effect at [illegible] Monday.

Meat Rationing Takes Share of Capital's Attention

Problem of Keeping Larder Filled Brings New Worry in Congress.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 24—As capitalites considered how best to carve their prospective meat ration today, other food problems diverted some official attention from diplomatic discussions, salary and farm-price ceilings, sabotage, war production and post-war planning.

The office of price administration's disclosure of coupon values for meat under the rationing which starts Monday had Washington wondering—right along with the rest of the nation—whether to plan to buy, for instance, two pounds of steak or 3 1-5 pounds of hamburger per person per week.

Paralleling that food consumption problem, Agriculture Secretary Wickard was worrying over production—and seeking a substitute for his stymied $100,000,000 incentive payment program which was blocked when a house appropriations subcommittee refused to okay funds for it. With crop prospects indicating shortages in dry beans and peas, im-

ALLIED PLANES OVER NAZI BASES TODAY

By The Associated Press

LONDON, March 24—Trading punches with the Germans across the English channel, allied airmen struck again this morning at enemy targets in northern France as Nazi warplanes resumed hit-and-run raids on coastal districts of Britain.

Heavy explosions west of Boulogne rocked houses in the Folkstone area after formations of allied planes had streaked across the channel.

The burst of daylight activity provided a follow-up to night attacks by RAF fighters on railway communications in northwest Germany and occupied territory.

One RAF plane was reported lost in the night raids, during which mines were laid in enemy waters in addition to the attacks on German communications.

The German day raiders hit a school in a southeast inland town. Three hundred children in the school went to a shelter a few minutes before the bomb struck.

Extensive damage with "fairly high" casualties was reported in other parts of the town. A workshop received a direct hit and there was a large number of casualties.

At least eight locomotives were reported shot up in yesterday's forays.

CLASSES OPEN FOR WAR JOBS

16 Enroll First Night at School Shop; More Expected During Week.

New classes to train men and women 18 years and older for jobs in war factories started last night at the vocational shop of Harding High school with 16 persons enrolling.

More persons are expected to enroll tonight and on the remaining nights of the week. Those in charge hope to have around 25 to take the 20-hour course, which is free and which will start non-skilled men and women of all ages toward jobs vital to the war effort.

Ten men and six women were interviewed in the opening session last night. Their ages ranged up to 59.

The class will be held five nights a week from 6:30 to 10:30 until a 20-hour course has been completed. Those enrolling have a choice of mechanical skills they may study. Among the equipment they may train on are lathes, milling machines, shapers, cylindrical grinders, radial drill presses, drill presses and screw machines.

Enrollments will be taken each night this week from 7 to 9 p. m. with L. H. Rieker, vocational coordinator, and a representative of the United States Employment Service on hand for interviews. The employment service and the school are jointly sponsoring the course. Bert Watters is instructor.

The course was set up largely at the request of Marion industries and has been approved by the school's advisory board on defense training.

Sale of Seed Potatoes Limited to Planters

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 24—Retail stores, beginning tomorrow, must not sell seed potatoes for any purpose other than planting, under an OPA ruling issued today.

The agency described its action as a "further step in its attack on the black market," in seed potatoes.

Earlier orders had prohibited the sale of seed potatoes—except for planting—at the country shipper and other distributor levels. This ban now is extended to retail sales.

KILLED IN CRASH

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 24—Mrs. Nellie Baker, 45, of Ashville, was killed and two women companions injured as their automobile and a truck collided on route 23 north of South Bloomfield today. The injured were Mrs. Blanche Johnson, 36, and Mrs. George Justice, 48, both of Ashville.

ALLIES SMASH JAP PLANES IN NEW BRITAIN

Concentration of Enemy Aircraft Target of Bombers in Pacific.

By VERN HAUGLAND
AP War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, March 24—A growing concentration of Japanese air power in the southwest Pacific was smashed yesterday by a predawn bombing of three airdromes at Rabaul, New Britain, in which more than 250 Nipponese fighter and bomber craft felt the weight of 34 tons of explosives and incendiaries, allied headquarters announced today.

Reconnaissance discovered the massed planes Monday and the bomber fleet went to work on it in an hour-long raid before daylight Tuesday "in the face of fierce anti-aircraft and searchlight barrages * * * in a series of coordinated strikes," the communique said.

Capt. William Thompson of Canton, O., was one of the pilots who found their targets.

Not an allied bomber was lost although some were damaged, and a 10,000-ton transport was added to the bag when returning bombers sighted it off Cape Gazelle and set it afire, it was declared.

"Fifty-four tons of bombs ranging from 2,000-pounders to fragmentation incendiaries were dropped on runways, dispersal areas, installations, searchlights and gun positions for one and a half hours," the communique stated. "Fires immediately broke out in all the target areas, rising and multiplying as our aircraft increased their pressure, columns of smoke reaching thousands of feet into the air."

It was indicated a substantial proportion of the Japanese plane pack was destroyed or damaged, as "congested aircraft on the ground were repeatedly hit."

Gasmata airdrome, on the southern shore of New Britain, also was the target for two attacks the same night.

Rabaul, Japan's largest naval and air center south of the mandated islands, is about 300 miles northeast of the allied air base at Port Moresby, New Guinea.

Field Marshal Sir Archibald P. Wavell's legions have failed in four attempts to crush Japanese defenses on the tip of the Mayp peninsula in Burma, dispatches said today, and now must readjust their positions to await the 360-inch rains of the monsoon.

Only a few weeks remain before the flood begins.

Dispatches said the British campaign bogged down mainly because they were unable to capture two Japanese strongpoints on the peninsula, whose tip lies opposite the big enemy base at Akyab on the bay of Bengal.

Nevertheless, observers said the British had achieved three objectives::

1. They killed many Japanese.
2. They gained valuable experience in jungle warfare.
3. They balked any Japanese plan to invade India before the monsoon.

Meanwhile, British headquarters said RAF warplanes blasted Japanese positions at Donbaik, on the Mayu peninsula, and strafed enemy river craft and Japanese troops along the Toungoo road.

OHIO GETS EVEN BREAK ON LIQUOR

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 24—State Liquor Director Don A. Fisher, asserting Ohio is getting "an even break or better" in allotments from distillers, reported today in excess of half a million cases of liquor were received from Jan. 1 to March 20.

"Rumors bob up in various parts of the state to the effect that distillers have clamped down on Ohio," said Fisher, "but here are some interesting figures."

The records showed Ohio received 203,623 cases of liquor in January, 148,030 in February and 152,147 to March 20, inclusive, a total of 503,800. On an average, about 65 per cent of the shipments are cases of 12 quarts each and 35 per cent cases of 24 pints apiece.

Fisher said January receipts exceeded those of the corresponding 1942 month substantially "because of a large stock on hand the first of last year." The February and March receipts compared, however, with more than 300,000 cases in the similar 1942 periods.

"Distillers have given us an

All Townships of County in War Bond Auction List

Every Locality Represented Among Livestock Contributions for Friday's Sale; One Donation from Crawford County.

With today's roundup netting generous contributions every township in Marion county is represented with a shoat, lamb or calf in Friday's war bond auction event to be held at the Union Stock Yards, Elmer J. Schoenlaub, county war bond chairman, reported today. In addition to the county's donation, there is one from a nearby county, a gift from Armor & Huckman, Bucyrus township, Crawford county.

From Tully township, Fred Baldinger reports one 400-lb. calf donated by Martel Grange, and Emmett Trout lists one shoat from Claridon township. A donation from United Grange. Other new gifts include the following: Ruth & Bowland, Green Camp township one shoat; Ruth & McNeal, Green Camp township, one shoat; G. M. Gibbs, Salt Rock township, one lamb; Harry Strine, Waldo township, two calves; Ransom Buck, Montgomery township East, one lamb. L. W. Wear, Scott township, one shoat.

Stock consigned for sale, with the seller taking the sale price in war bonds, include 20 head from the east side of the river in Waldo township, reported by Harry Strine, chairman, and also a purebred Hereford heifer consigned by P. W. Jacoby and Orrin Lindley of Richland township.

There are scores of animals for auction, consignors taking the entire sale price in war bonds and stamps.

PUSH BUCYRUS SLAYING PROBE

Authorities Investigating Murder Still Center on Search for Missing Soldier.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, O., March 24—A mysterious telephone call made to the office of the Bucyrus Telegraph-Forum Monday afternoon partially substantiates Prosecutor Leo Scanlon's belief that Pvt. Glore Bevard, 42, a suspect in the murder of Wilma Reed, waitress in a local cafe, was still in Bucyrus Monday afternoon, several hours after the time of the woman's death.

The call to the Bucyrus newspaper Monday was made by a man, paper officials told police. He asked only, "Have you a murder in your paper today?" Told that the newspaper did not, the man immediately hung up.

Authorities expressed belief yesterday that the murderer left the scene of the crime without knowing his victim was dead.

Soldier Still Sought

Pvt. Bevard, who before his induction into the Army lived at Peoria, Ill., still today was the principal suspect of Crawford county authorities in mystery-shrouded death of the woman who moved to Bucyrus only three weeks ago. Her home is in Canton, Ill.

During police investigation into the death of Miss Reed, who also was known in Bucyrus as Mrs. Wilma Reed Bevard, it was learned that Bevard had been seeking a divorce from his wife in a Canton, Ill., court. He is married and is that father of five children. Canton officials told Prosecutor Scanlon that "we have been having trouble with him over payment of support money." It was understood that his wife was contesting the divorce proceedings.

A letter from an attorney in Illinois advised Pvt. Bevard that he may have more difficulty than originally expected in obtaining a divorce from his wife, the mother of the five children.

Victim's Father Coming

Working through the Crawford county Red Cross chapter, Prosecutor Scanlon learned that the victim's father would came to Bucyrus sometime today to claim the body. The father's message through the Red Cross indicated that his daughter and Pvt. Bevard were legally married. But Scanlon said, "We are at a loss as to the true status of the couple, but Illinois information indicates strong that they are not legally married."

The body of the victim was found shortly after noon Monday in a two-room apartment on the north side of Bucyrus. The apartment was at the home of Mrs. Sara Angene. Mrs. Angene called police after she failed to hear or see either of the persons since Sunday.

Mrs. Angene told police she saw Pvt. Bevard come home Sunday night and at that time he told her his wife would be home shortly. About 11 o'clock, she told police, she heard another person enter the house and go upstairs. An argument followed, but she said she went to sleep without hearing any other unusual commotion.

Missing from Camp

After police discovered the dead woman a search was immediately started for Pvt. Bevard. At Camp Millard it was found that he had not reported Monday morning and that he was marked up as absent without leave.

Prosecutor Scanlon was then summoned and he immediately ordered a check of all bus and railroad stations. This netted only one report, that of a soldier who purchased a round-trip ticket at Galion.

Meanwhile the body was removed to the Henderson and Lutz funeral home where Dr. O. R. Kackley of Galion, Crawford county coroner, determined that death was due to concussion of the brain and strangulation.

Police officials said the woman had been struck several

RED CROSS DRIVE GOAL DRAWS NEAR

Expected To Be Topped in Reports Tonight.

The goal in the Marion county Red Cross chapter's war fund drive for $36,000 is expected to be reached tonight when workers make their final reports at headquarters at 133½ West Center street at 7:30, drive leaders indicated today.

The report last Thursday night showed a total of $33,862.27 collected, leaving only $2,037.73 to be raised. Following the last report drive leaders voiced confidence the goal would be reached and topped by tonight.

Since then the school drive has been completed with collections totaling $582.62 collected. The original school division quota was $500 and the amount collected is 116.4 per cent of the goal.

The ladies' division, headed by Mrs. Margaret Smoot, is over the top with 130 per cent, having raised $4,400 while the original quota called for only $2,000.

The county report, to be made by Eugene Willey, is expected to be well over the top, Drive Chairman J. D. Torrance said. In the last report Mr. Willey listed collections and pledges equalling the quota. Tonight's report is expected to top the goal in cash collections alone.

Other divisions and division heads to report tonight are: small industries, Clarence Shockney; retail stores, Leonard Young; national stores, C. J. Campbell; special gifts, Earl Pierce and municipal offices, Walter Johnson. Mr. Torrance is directing the large industries division.

The report of the Erie railroad will complete the larger industries division, Mr. Torrance said.

Drive results will be broadcast over Station WMRN at 8:05 tonight.

Hitler's Former Baker Seized Here by FBI

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 24—Adolf Hitler's former baker, who concocted pastries for the Nazi elite guard and storm troopers at Hitler's retreat at Berchtesgaden, Germany, has been apprehended by FBI agents as an enemy alien, it was announced today.

E. E. Conroy, special agent in charge of the FBI, said the 40-year-old baker told him he came here from Berchtesgaden in 1937, and had been employed in a well-known West 42nd St. restaurant.

Conroy said he told agents he refused to serve in the U. S. Army against any axis power, and had two brothers, one in the German army and the other a German policeman.

CLAIM 16 SHIPS SUNK

The German radio, reporting a special war communique, said today German submarines within a few days recently had sunk 15 ships totaling 73,000 tons and torpedoed two others, results of attacks on supply ships for the North African front. These claims were without allied confirmation.

NAZIS FORCE BRITISH BACK; PATTON GAINS

Tunisian Battle Picture Somewhat Confused in Heavy Fighting.

By The Associated Press

Field Marshal Erwin Rommel has lashed back with a series of violent counterattacks and virtually wiped out the British Eighth army's breach in the Mareth line, it was officially announced today, but has failed to dislodge the British from the Mareth village area at the upper end of the "Little Maginot" fortifications.

Dispatches said the situation was "very confused."

In the north, flank-led American troops were reported to have inflicted a decided reverse on the Germans in the El Guetar sector and pushed on five miles toward the sea from Maknassy in a threat to Rommel's northern lifeline.

Frontline reports said U. S. artillery fire destroyed 10 to 30 tanks out of a force of some 100 German tanks east of El Guetar, where the Americans were within an hour's drive of the sea.

Prime Minister Churchill told parliament in London that Rommel had regained the greater part of ground lost in the British Eighth army's assault, which had torn a mile-deep salient into the German defense zone near Zarat.

An Algiers broadcast, unconfirmed elsewhere, said the Eighth army was continuing to advance within 13 miles of Gabes.

A bulletin from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters said the Germans, making a bitter stand in response to Hitler's reported order for them to "fight to the last man," counterattacked in all three main sectors of central and southern Tunisia yesterday.

A communique reported serious losses were inflicted on the counter-attacking Germans and more than 2,000 prisoners were captured. Some 3,000 axis prisoners previously had been reported taken since the allied offensive began last Saturday.

The allied war bulletin said a British column which swept 100 miles around the lower end of the Mareth line gained fresh ground against stiff armored resistance, advancing another two miles toward the axis air field at El Hamma.

This flanking column yesterday was reported only 10 miles south of the air field.

Simultaneously, frontline dispatches said U. S. troops had stood firm under a heavy German counter-assault on the Maknassy-El Guetar front, north of the Mareth line, and had knocked out 30 axis tanks.

The Algiers radio said American armored forces had lunged on five miles beyond newly recaptured Maknassy and seized an important ridge threatening Rommel's path of retreat to the north.

Italian headquarters gave this version of the battle:

"In Tunisia, fierce fighting continues in the central and southern sectors. During a counterattack launched by axis forces, 40 enemy tanks were destroyed and 170 prisoners were taken.

Churchill, who said he based his statement on the latest information from Tunisia, declared Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's forces had largely restored the main axis defense in the Mareth zone.

There was no immediate indication whether his information was later or earlier than the Algiers broadcast of a seven-mile smash through the north end of the line.

Churchill warned the battle had not yet reached its climax and that much hard fighting lay ahead, but declared that "on the other hand (I have great confidence in the final result."

Dispatches said the fighting was "extremely fierce" as Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's troops poured into a two-mile-wide gap in the upper Mareth works near Zarat.

More than 3,000 axis prisoners were reported already streaming back to the rear, with some Italians surrendering rather than suffer further pounding by Montgomery's big guns.

"Enemy resistance remains very strong," the Algiers radio said, and Rommel was pictured as battling desperately to keep open his escape corridor between Gabes and the Chott Djerid salt lake.

Gabes, chief axis supply port for the Mareth defense system, lies 20 miles north of the line.

"After punching a gap in the northern end of the Mareth line, the 8th army is now pouring toward Gabes," the allied-controlled Algiers radio announced.

Flanking Unit Gains

Other British columns, which had raced 100 miles around the southern end of the line in a spectacular out-flanking movement, were reported squeezing

FEAR 10 DEAD AT RAVENNA

Blast Rocks Portage Ordnance Depot; Two Bodies Recovered.

By The Associated Press

RAVENNA, O., March 24—An ammunition explosion spread death among a loading crew at the government's $7,000,000 Portage Ordnance Depot today, killing possibly as many as ten workers.

Col. Raymond A. Brown, commanding officer, said two bodies were recovered and that the number killed "probably will not exceed ten."

The first dead man identified was George W. Hawkins of Lake Street, Kent, O.

Seriously injured and taken to Marine hospital, near Cleveland, was Robert Hilliard of West Farmington, O.

Colonel Brown said names of other victims would be announced as soon as they were determined and that the cause of the explosion at 11:55 a. m., eastern war time, had not been learned.

The blast was felt in Youngstown, some 30 miles distant, and in other cities of northeastern Ohio. A huge cloud of smoke arose over the area and particles of dirt fell like snow, spectators reported.

"The number of killed is unknown," Colonel Brown said 40 minutes after the blast. "Two bodies so far have been recovered.

The explosion occurred where a crew of seven or eight normally is at work loading ammunition for shipment, the officer disclosed.

It was the first serious accident

Americans Still To Eat More Meat Than Other People

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 24—If it's any consolation, today's announcement of meat ration allowances is about twice as generous as that in any foreign country.

On the average, the point values on American meat will allow a person to buy about 32 ounces a week—actually depending on the cuts chosen and the number of points diverted to cheese, butter or other allied items.

Of the countries where meat is rationed, the next best allotment is in England where weekly rations include four ounces of bacon, 14 ounces of other meat, two ounces of cooking fats, two ounces of butter and four ounces of other fats. In England, meat is rationed at so many cents worth per week rather than on a point basis.

Russia, as last reports, was providing 16 ounces of meat per week, and Germany 12.

In the rest of Europe meat rations run from three ounces per week in France to one ounce in Norway and practically none in Greece.

On this, our 75th Birthday

TODAY, our country is at war—engaged in a desperate struggle to determine whether the freedom we have created and cherished shall survive or perish.

Beside the all-embracing immensity of that issue, the Diamond Anniversary which Metropolitan celebrates this month is of small importance.

Yet today, on our 75th birthday, it is perhaps proper that this company, representing nearly thirty million policyholders, should here voice its faith in the future, and its determination to help make that future brighter than any period in the past.

We have just reason for that faith. Ours is a business that has been built on faith—faith in the continued and growing greatness of our country, faith in the integrity of our people.

In the 75 years since Metropolitan was founded, on March 24, 1868, we have seen America face crisis after crisis—wars, panics, depressions, disasters of many kinds . . . and from each such crisis we have seen this country emerge stronger than ever. We confidently believe that America will do just that again—that the best years of our history lie before us.

We have every reason, too, for our determination to help make that future brighter. No business, perhaps, touches the lives and aspirations of millions of people more closely than ours. It is our plain duty to help those people fulfill their dreams—of an education for their children, of security for their families, of financial independence in their own old age.

In the past, we have tried to perform that duty through the wise investment of more than six billion dollars which we hold for the benefit of our policyholders. We have tried to do it through conscientious economical management, so that insurance costs would be held to a minimum. We have tried to do it through the prompt payment of all benefits—which, in the 75 years of our existence, have totalled over nine and a half billion dollars. And through our organized health activities, established in 1909, we have tried to make every possible contribution to healthier, longer lives for our policyholders—lives which, taken from birth, now average over twenty years longer than they did in 1868.

In doing these things, we have also tried to be a good citizen. For we are part of America. Her future is ours. And today, in this critical hour of her history, we say again—our faith in her future has never been stronger.

Meat Ration Point Values Set

want to save some of their early-month coupons for a splurge in the final week of April.

However, the real purpose of this system of accumulating coupons for the first month is to give a fair break to people in some communities where meat or butter may be especially scarce in the early part of the month.

The Red A coupons will give each person—even babies—16 points, which is the total of the 8, 5, 2 and 1 point stamps printed in Red and marked A.

One may then buy meat or butter or cheese or anything else on the list according to its point value as he desires. For instance, vegetarians may spend all their points on butter and cheese while some people may buy practically nothing but meat. The system is virtually the same as the point values for canned goods.

Average Is 6 Points

The average value of all meats, lumping everything from pigs feet to porterhouse, is 6 points per pound, but the most popular types average 8 points. Typical 8 point cuts are all beef steak (except boned sirloin which is 9), veal loin chops, center pork chops, loin lamb chops, fresh or cured sliced ham, and either sliced or slab bacon with the rind off. Roasts are mostly 6 to 8 points per pound.

Hamburger is only 5 points per pound, but a catch here is OPA's definition of hamburger as something made exclusively of scraps and other waste meats. If one wants better ground meat, he will have to buy it in its original form, pay the regular point value, and then have it ground to order.

Other cheaper meats include stew meat at between 4 and 6 points per pound, spare ribs at 4, beef brains at 3, beef liver at 6 or pork liver at 5, and ready to eat pigs feet at 2 points per pound.

Some high-point items include: boneless loin pork chops, 10; pork tenderloin, 10; dried beef, 12; Canadian bacon, 11; whole or half of ready-to-eat ham at 9 or 11 if sliced.

All butter and rationed types of cheese are 8 points per pound; lard, shortening and margarine, 5; salad and cooking oils, 6 points per pound or pint, all canned fish, 7 points per pound (figuring can't total cost according to label weight of contents).

Generally, ready-to-eat meats, especially delicatessen items, were given point values of 2 points per given point values of 2 points per pound if sliced) higher than the coupon cost of the raw meat. This differential was selected to take care of shrinkage and waste in processing. Thus, to find the point value of corned beef, as an example, a butcher will have to figure out what cut of meat it was made out of, the point value of the meat in its original form, and add 2 or 3 points per pound, depending on whether the finished products is sold whole or sliced. A whole or half fresh ham, for instance, will cost 7 points per pound, while the same ham in ready-to-eat condition costs 9 points. Ready to eat sliced ham is a slight exception from the rule, and costs 11 points per pound.

Normal Trim Ordered

The government ordered all meats should be sold on a "normal trim" basis. That meant butchers were supposed to cut off a "normal" amount of bone and fat before weighing. However, consumers will have to do their own policing of the order, and if dissatisfied can do nothing but argue with the butcher or take their trade elsewhere.

A few standard types of meat failed to appear on the point chart, notably rolled rib beef roast. For any such cuts, the point value will have to be determined by weighing up the original cut after which the butcher can trim and roll or otherwise prepare the desired cut. Accordingly, butcher shops will not be able to have such things as rolled rib roasts on display and will have to make them up on order.

All point values in this program are on a "per pound" basis, even with regard to canned meats or fish, and fractional weights will be figured to the nearest full coupon point—except that at least one point must be charged for even the smallest purchase. Thus a steak which costs 8 points per pound may be bought in a half pound portion at 4 points, or in a pound and three ounce size at 10 points.

In this figuring, a fraction amounting to less than ½ point is disregarded, while a fraction of ½ or more costs a whole point. Thus 7 ounces of pork sausage (7 points per pound) will cost 3 points, while 8 ounces will cost 4 points.

Because of the difficulty in cutting meat to exact weights, and thus to exact coupon totals, OPA authorized butchers to give "coupon change," using 1-point coupons for this purpose. For instance, if a person bought 6 points worth of meat and had only an 8 point coupon to pay for it, the butcher can give him back two 1-point stamps. This is a departure from the point system on canned goods, where no change is permitted.

Retailers and wholesalers will use in their purchases an entirely different set of point values, which will be much lower to compensate them for shrinkage and waste. These reduced point values also will be available to any householder who have the money and coupons to buy bulk quantities, but officials said that they probably would gain little or nothing by it, because of shrinkage and wastes involved in such transactions.

REVENUE COLLECTIONS UP

WASHINGTON, March 24—The internal revenue bureau reported today February collections were nearly $200,000,000 greater than for the corresponding month a year ago. February receipts from all internal revenue sources totalled $1,059,072,269, the bureau reported, compared with $861,149,007 in the same month a year ago.

TWO MORRAL MEN ON "MISSING" LIST

Among 17 in Ohio Reported by War Department.

Two Morral soldiers are among 17 Ohioans officially reported today by the war department as missing in action in the North Africa campaign in an announcement to The Associated Press in Washington.

They are Pvt. William C. Reynolds, son of Samuel Reynolds of near Morral, and Pvt. John W. Koontz, son of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Koontz.

On March 1 Mr. and Mrs. Koontz were notified their son was missing in telegram from the war department. At that time a news account was published in The Star.

Pvt. Reynolds, about 20 years of age, was inducted into the Army in August, 1942. He has been home once since, a member of the family said yesterday. Word that Pvt. Reynolds was missing came late in February.

Besides the father at home, Pvt. Reynolds has three sisters, Mrs. Mary McManus of Harpster, Mrs. Anna Foreman and Mrs. Dorothy Foreman, both of Morral. The mother died a year ago.

War Plant Paper Resumed; New Editor in Charge

JAMES FITZPATRICK

Publication of the Scioto Victory News has been resumed at the Scioto Ordnance Plant in charge of James Fitzpatrick as editor. The first issue of the weekly publication under its new editor was printed and distributed among plant employes last week. The paper is now under direction of the U. S. Rubber Co., operating the plant for the war department.

Mr. Fitzpatrick has been at Scioto since last December in the employe training department. He and his wife and three children make their home at 1044 East Center street. Before coming to Scioto, he spent six years teaching natural sciences and coaching in high schools in the east. He received his B. S. degree from Manhattan college, studied one year at Boston University School of Medicine and received his master's degree from Columbia university in 1937.

The plant paper for the time being will retain much of the general appearance of the previous weekly publication. Last week's issue contained four pages and carried photographs and news sketches about key workers and Army officers figuring in recent personnel changes at the plant.

Two Ohio Gunners Bag Enemy Planes

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, March 24 — Two Ohioans were credited with shooting down enemy planes yesterday in the continuing allied assaults against axis sea lanes and supply bases.

Sgt. David R. Kava of Youngstown, a Flying Fortress gunner, won a victory over one of the 23 enemy planes bagged in the operations and Staff Sgt. Herbert A. Bolin of Lancaster, gunner aboard another aircraft, also brought down one.

Kava scored during the bombing of docks at Palermo, supply terminal in Sicily, and Bolin a fierce dogfight over a convoy. A troopship in the convoy was hit and left aflame and hits were made on another ship and an escort vessel.

Anti-Saloon League Backs Liquor Ban Bill

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 24 — The Ohio anti-saloon league is backing with "everything it has" a bill which would ban sale of liquor by the drink, Supt. S. P. McNaught asserted today.

The measure, introduced by Rep. L. H. Myers (R-Allen) would permit sales by the bottle and "would close places where war workers become unfit for their jobs and where loose war talk is common," McNaught declared.

Asserting the state's liquor shortage is "just dandy, but it could be dandier," the league superintendent said the measure now in house reference committee also "would tend to solve the twin problems of pandering and prostitution."

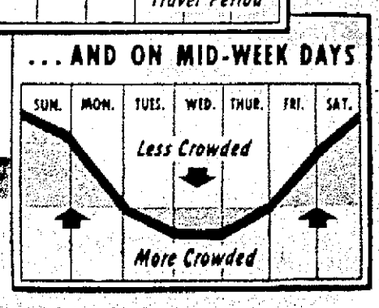
Buses will serve you better if you time your trip to aid the war effort

—BEFORE THE SUMMER RUSH

. . . AND ON MID-WEEK DAYS



• Everybody has extra responsibilities in wartime—and that includes Greyhound. It is all-important today that every bus be used when and where it will do the most to help the war effort. You can help by timing your travel right — by taking trips in the early Spring when travel is lighter, rather than in the mid-summer rush period. You can aid by choosing mid-week rather than week-end days. You can aid still further by choosing from Greyhound's many daily schedules the buses on which more seats are usually available —and Greyhound will gladly tell you which these schedules are.

Buses will serve you better if, in addition to timing your trip right, you get tickets and information in advance, take along less baggage than usual, and accept wartime changes and slight inconveniences with a smile!

GARDENING GUIDE — 3

Planning Your Planting

By The Associated Press

Garden generals, like frontline generals, plan their summer's campaign to fit the terrain and the climate in which they are to battle.

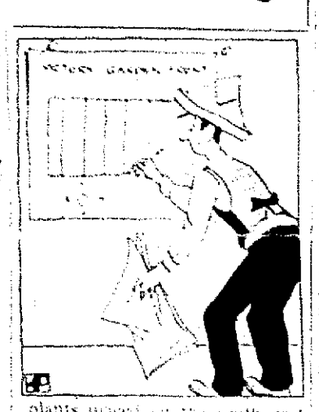
In the 1943 Victory Garden front, map the ground that is available to you. Then carefully draw your plan, showing which way the rows will run, what each will contain, and about how much production can be expected.

The ideal arrangement is to have a plot of land that slopes gently toward the south, the better to catch the sunlight.

The rows should run across the hillside, not up and down it. Otherwise in heavy storms the soil may wash away.

Avoid planting near trees and shrubbery. Their long roots rob garden soil of moisture and plant food and their shade is undesirable.

The small and early vegetables should be planted on the south side of the plot. Larger plants placed on the south cast shadows over smaller ones.



Experts of the United States Department of Agriculture say the ideal size Victory Garden in cities is from 30x50 to 50x100 feet. This, they say, will grow a good portion of the vegetables needed by the average family.

Canteen Service Expanding

Mirrors Collected for Use in Armed Forces; Furnishings Added to Canteen Quarters.

Women of the Marion canteen, in addition to seeing that men and women of the armed forces are provided with refreshments and reading material as they go through the city or stop for a short time to change trains, have added to their wartime program—they are collecting pocketbook mirrors and are also, bit by bit, fitting up the canteen quarters as a place where the service men can rest a bit, write a letter or even spend a few minutes reading.

The women want every mirror that is to be had—and what for? For seaman's kits which are being made by the medical and surgical relief committee. The mirrors are used for signalling and it's easy to see how invaluable they would be to a man of the armed forces should he land some place other than where he expected to and wished to attract the attention of a passing boat or plane.

The mirrors, because of the polishing and plating, are one of the costly items of the present day and for this reason are difficult to get. So save and gather up all your mirrors and take them to the canteen, or give them to some canteen worker, and who knows—you may save a life.

So far the appeal for something in the way of furnishings for the canteen quarters has netted a leather davenport and rocker and a large round dining room table, just the articles needed. The davenport and rocker are comfortable and easy to keep clean and the table is a most convenient place for a service man to write a few lines while waiting for his train. It's a grand start, the women say, and naturally they're hoping there will be more.

Letters of appreciation continue to pour in from men who have received refreshments and magazines from the local canteen. The following is from Capt. B. F. Hill, recruiting officer for the aviation cadet examining board, Boston Mass.:

"A little over a week ago I took a troop train through Marion and saw the marvelous job you are doing for the boys on these trains. I have never seen or heard of anything like it any place else, and you certainly all are to be complimented on the time and effort I am sure must have been put into this." The following was underscored; "Rest assured it certainly is appreciated."

The team captained by Mrs. John Cook, 401 was on duty the day Capt. Hill's train stopped in Marion. The members are Mrs. J. C. Stephenson, Miss Fauna Upham, Mrs. William L. Schuppert of Marion and Mrs. John D. Harrison of Caledonia.

Showdown on Tax Reform

INCOME tax reform is headed for a showdown in the house of representatives. On the eve of battle, moreover, it must be acknowledged by all parties concerned that the question may be used for the American equivalent of a vote of confidence. It threatens to be a straight pro-anti division, with the Republican minority hoping to gain enough dissatisfied Democratic votes to become a majority.

It is unfortunate that the administration has chosen so unlikely an occasion to call on its congressional support for last-ditch loyalty. The position to which it has committed its followers by stubborn and unexplained opposition to the Ruml plan of income tax reform is untenable; public opinion, common sense and expert judgment are all on the other side. Nothing but discredit can come from taking a stand on this particular issue, and even if the stand unexpectedly proved successful the consequences of muddling along with the wholly unacceptable alternative offered by the ways and means committee majority would be worse yet.

However, the decision presumably was made after careful consideration, leaving the opposition no choice but to join the issue squarely. That has been done, thanks in large part to the ways and means committee minority, which voted in a bloc of nine to resist the majority. Among the minority Ohioans note the name of Rep. Thomas A. Jenkins of Ironton, who has been using his influence to bring a sensible tax reform proposal. The only Republican member of the committee who voted with the die-hards of the majority was Rep. Gearhart of California, and he explains in his biography in the Congressional Directory that he holds office as a bi-partisan and not a Republican.

Overture

THE beginning of spring and the beginning of the conclusive phase of the war in Africa coincide. It is more than accident that our hopes are running high.

All doubts to the contrary notwithstanding, the combined attacks of our forces and the British and French forces in Africa signify that the overture to decisive action has started.

If all goes well—and it must and will—the Axis now will be routed in Africa and brought to grips next on a new western front. Then, between Russia in the east and Great Britain, the United States and all the other allies in the west, the north and the south, Germany will be whipped — or, as Prime Minister Churchill put it in his Sunday address, Hitler will be beaten "into death, dust and ashes."

It will take time, and it will be costly. But it is the thing that must be done. It is good to know that the job now is well under way at the point where the mettle of United States forces first was tested in the second great war with Germany in this century—in Africa.

Man's Greatest Shortcoming

THERE will be opportunity for much brotherly love between families caught short on edible fats and more fortunate families able to survive the week-long freeze announced last Sunday by OPA.

In view of Administrator Brown's kindnesses to consumers, it may be assumed that he meant it when he expressed hope that it wouldn't be necessary to stop sales of butter, margarine, lard and other edible fats in advance of rationing. But it also must be assumed, in view of what is obvious about the supply of these commodities obtainable, that without a breathing spell to restock retailers rationing could not have been started with adequate supplies on hand. The buying rush already had stripped the retail outlets of their supplies and was due to get worse as the deadline approached. As usual, people were behaving like human beings; they were doing their dim-witted best to look out for themselves.

This inability to behave like anything else but human beings is man's greatest shortcoming in peace and war. With a super-race, there would be no panic buying, no selfishness, no hoarding. There wouldn't need to be any rationing, because all the government would have to do would be to suggest that everybody should eat only half as much until further notice. But then of course there wouldn't be any other troubles either, which is something that an OPA administrator must day-dream about in the springtime of 1943.

CONFUSED CONVERSATION

Miss S., a clever secretary, though rather inelegant, was taking up tatting as a hobby.

Entering the needlework department of a smart Washington shop, she said crisply, "I am looking for a shuttin tuttle."

"A what, madam?" asked the young clerk politely.

"Why, you know," answered Miss S. tartly, "a shuttin tuttle."

"Shutin tattle?" repeated the now completely bewildered little clerk.

"If you were an alert and intelligent employe," continued Miss S. icily, "you would know very well what I am looking for is a tuttin shattle."—Christian Science Monitor.

News Behind the News

Americans, in Daily Lives, Believed Setting Good Example for Planning Post-War World.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, March 24 — [illegible] daily [illegible] seem to be [illegible] a pretty good [illegible] the planners of [illegible].

[illegible] the nature [illegible] himself, yet [illegible] integrity of [illegible] desire to [illegible]. He gets along with his neighbors, refusing [illegible] a friendly and [illegible] spirit, but he does not sacrifice his own views.

It is within this scope that he practices brotherly love in his own daily life. He does not practice it to the idealistic extent of trying to love his next-door neighbor as much as his immediate family.

It is only natural for a man to care for those who are around him more than those who are distant. He always will.

The same is true in an international sense among nations. Each nation first considers its own—or should. After that, it gets along with its neighbors in an agreeable, friendly, negotiated spirit as best it can.

Not all get along with all. But each adapts itself to the realities of existence which are the common lot of each individual man in his work, his life, and his community.

Individual Behavior

No individual that I ever heard of carries brotherly love to the extent of taking his weekly pay check and going up and down the neighborhood distributing it either to friends or foes, or both alike.

Certainly, he does not borrow money from his family so to speak, to distribute even more than he earns or that he can afford. If any individual man did such things, he would be considered a fool.

Yet proposals have been made that we do collectively what each of us knows to be foolish, as far as he himself is concerned. No nation can expect to live alone just as no man can live alone. Inter-dependency is also a natural law.

But to carry it in a post-war settlement beyond the practical point, which each man has set for himself in his own way of living, is, to my mind, to carry it into the realm of impracticability. It will not work.

But if we adopt the common sense individual basis, it would not be necessary for us to sacrifice our national ideals a bit, or open our national purse of the people's money any wider than is sensible to live agreeably with the other fellow.

Needn't Sacrifice Ideals

We can protect ourselves by maintaining our own Army and Navy alertly and fully to assure us peace and protection at home. We need not adopt any foreign notions as to how government [illegible] or podunket. We do not [illegible] to go [illegible] them [illegible] Europe.

[illegible] and [illegible] generally go [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] or at [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible].

[illegible] of [illegible] national welfare [illegible] be procured. It [illegible] deeply [illegible] so [illegible] No man worthy of the [illegible] respects [illegible] religious [illegible] wants [illegible] on atheism, agnosticism, Buddhism, Christianity, or Judaism.

Many [illegible] religious-minded Americans [illegible] think that they would be deeply offended if anyone proposed that they [illegible] their Methodist, Baptist or Catholic beliefs halfway to Buddhism or agnosticism. They would not think of whittling down their beliefs halfway to the Mohammedan and expect the Mohammedans to meet them in a post-war world at some point called "X" halfway between them.

The Half-Way Proposals

Yet [illegible] international politics, where the national ideal of the United States is concerned, they listen to suggestions that as Stalin is coming half-way toward democracy, we should carry democracy half-way toward him, and, nodding gravely, nod their heads in affirmation. At least that is the way it seems to me.

They would certainly not nod their heads but rise in righteous indignation if Buddha sent missionaries to the United States to convert them back half-way to Buddhism.

Therefore, I think the foundation of [illegible] argument is all wrong. The impression has been built up that a man is a irreconcilable reactionary if he does not believe in what Mr. Wallace suggested, or that he is a so-and-so conservative trying to go back to the old international ways.

There has been no such thing as a status quo in the world that I have been able to observe in my lifetime. Certainly there is no part of the history of this world of international relations of strife from the beginning that anyone wants to go back to, as far as I have been able to observe.

The course must always be ahead. But in plotting that course, idealism will serve us only if it is constructive, and I think the practical idealism of the average man in getting along with the people around him in his daily life will serve the nations a good example. Any stronger idealism would not have a solid basis in human instinct.

Fully Cancelled

By The Associated Press

The sober business of war gets an occasional breathing spell from such high-handed bits of humor as a stamp cancellation which has turned up from the South Pacific battle area. It proclaims that "Tojo is a bum, Hitler a heel."

Such cancellations, although they are not authorized by the federal government or postoffice department, turn up occasionally because the rules concerning cancellations are quite elastic. The purpose of cancellation is to destroy the face value of a stamp, and in this instance it certainly was accomplished. This cancellation was on a letter sent by a Marine corporal to a friend in New York City.

Forgotten Treasure

By The Associated Press

BOONVILLE, Mo. — While pondering what to buy his wife for her birthday anniversary, Capt. C. V. Anderson of Kemper Military school was casually clearing out his desk.

Back in a corner, he found a package. In it were three pairs of nylon hose he had purchased long ago, for a birthday present for Mrs. Anderson, and had forgotten to take home.

Of the 138 million pounds of olives and olive oil imported in 1940, 57 million came from Spain, 50 million from Greece, 20 million from Italy and 9 million from Portugal.

Army Trucks

The workhorse of this war is the American Army truck. Volume production has distributed it all over the world in enormous numbers.

Taxpayers should be glad to know that the secret of volume production hasn't been forgotten just because the trucks are being made for fighting forces instead of civilian purchasers. The manufacturers still are trying to hammer down the unit cost of production.

One important producer reports that 99 per cent of the aluminum formerly used has been eliminated since early in 1941; that all rubber, except where needed for safety, has been eliminated; that copper, tin and nickel have been replaced largely by non-critical materials.

On one item alone, the rear bumper, a new design saved $5 a truck on all models. Many truck bodies formerly made entirely of steel now are being made of wood—a saving of as much as 1,000 pounds of steel on some models.

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Friday, March 24, 1933.

A New York statistician estimated more than $65,000,000 would be spent in the next few months for new breweries and alterations and additions to old ones as a result of legalization of beer.

George Bernard Shaw, English playwright, set foot on American soil for the first time, and immediately announced to reporters at New York that he "knew more of America than its inhabitants." He added that the American people elected public officials because the candidates had their pictures taken with a baby in their arms.

Thirteen students to compete in the annual county school declamation competition on March 31 in Marion were selected in district elimination contests at Morral and Caledonia. First place winners in various events included Carl Kniffin of LaRue, Joan O'Connell of Agosta, Edmund Augenstein of Green Camp, Elizabeth Alexander of Meeker and Betty Boyer of Agosta, all at Morral and George Jones of Pleasant school, Robert Kelly of Caledonia and Theodore Long of Waldo, all at Caledonia.

Mrs. Chester C. Roberts was elected president of the Greenwood P.-T. A. in a meeting at the school.

Mrs. A. W. Dennis of Olney avenue and Mrs. Ida Uncapher of North Prospect street visited friends in Findlay.

Mrs. Alice Dundore was hostess to the Ladies' Embroidery circle at the home of her daughter, Mrs. James Turner of Hane avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Fields entertained the Pastime Euchre club at their home on Orchard street.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Saturday, March 24, 1923.

Three known dead were listed and vast property damage reported in a flood in Nebraska and Iowa which resulted from an ice gorge in the Missouri river.

Secretary of State Hughes and acting Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt agreed to leave it up to President Harding to decide if a proposed modernization of the 18 capital ships of the United States Navy would be a violation of the Washington naval treaty.

Mrs. Missouri Dickason, 68, died at her home west of LaRue.

Leonard Green, 24, of Galion was killed when the railway speeder on which he was riding on the Big Four, between Leonardsburg and Ashley was hit by a passenger train.

A report from State Auditor Joseph T. Tracy showed that the bonded indebtedness of all taxing districts in Marion county for 1922 amounted to $4,604,625, which represented an increase of nearly $3,000,000 since 1910.

Mrs. W. W. Jack of Congress street entertained the pupils of Oakland heights school second grade at a party in celebration of the eighth birthday anniversary of her daughter, Margaret.

Mrs. John T. Gruber, 38 died at her home on Mt. Vernon avenue.

Lloyd Stanley Converse, 12, of South Grand Avenue died as the result of burns received from explosion of a can of kerosene.

Another Problem

WICHITA, Kan.—Amidst his war problems, President Roosevelt has been asked to decide another important issue: whether a Wichita baby was born on Christmas day or Christmas eve.

A young father dashed into the office of Fred Partridge, U. S. district court clerk.

"My baby was born at 12:40 Christmas morning by war time or 11:40 p. m. Christmas eve by standard time," he said. "We don't know whether we received a Christmas present or not and the doctor won't sign the birth certificate because he isn't sure."

Partridge explained that the court had nothing to do with the time.

"Didn't Roosevelt start this war time?" asked the father. "Well, it is up to him to settle it."

Army Gets Mail Through

Establishes 6-Weeks Training for Postmen.

By JACK STINNETT
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 24.—For the first time the Army has set up a school for postmen.

Officially, it's the Army Postoffice School at Pennsylvania State Teachers College, West Chester, Pa. Every two weeks 125 men will be graduated from the six-weeks course of instruction in delivering Army mail. But there's more to it than that. It's really a post graduate school, because it's open only to former postoffice employes now in the Army.

The Army's mail history is a long one. When George Washington's ragged little Continental army was playing hare and hounds with the British, the importance of mail to the troops was recognized. The general himself pleaded with the post to do better in getting letters from home to the men on the firing line. By the time World War I came around, the morale value of a message from mama or the girl friend was an established fact and the APO went to town. Compared to mail delivery problems of World War II, however, those of the first World War were simple.

Around the World

APO offices now circle the globe. When our troops landed in North Africa, "shooting postmen" were among the first to get their feet wet. Mobile postoffices now move so close to the front lines that they frequently are under fire. In New Guinea, where almost every foot had to be hacked out of mountain jungles, they were right behind the mobile mess trucks. There are APOs in India, Iceland, Panama, Alaska, Ireland, Greenland and New Zealand—to mention only a few spots.

But that's not half the story. Not long ago, a big ferry command plane went down in the North Atlantic. It carried several thousand letters of Army mail. The plane sank in comparatively shallow water. Divers went down and brought up the mail sacks. It took weeks of work at the New York APO to decipher some of those water-smeared addresses, but when it was all over, only a score or so of the letters had to be sent to the dead letter office.

When the Atlantic Clipper took its tragic plunge near Lisbon recently, it was carrying 176,000 V-mail letters. According to Col. W. A. Kenyon, deputy director of the Army Postal Service, within 48 hours the originals of those letters still held in New York had been re-run on V-mail film and were on their way to their destinations.

Originals of V-mail letters are never destroyed until word has been received they have reached their destination. Thus, for the first time there's a method of assuring delivery, despite sinkings, bombings, fire and high water.

On All Convoys

Every convoy that goes out of the U. S. carries tons of mail. If there is anything to the U-boat menace at all, some tons of that mail must be at the bottom of the seven seas.

Still millions of those letters are going through under conditions never imagined a few years ago. From now on, a large proportion of the mailmen who deliver them will be graduates of the West Chester school and possibly other schools to be opened. They'll be fighting men as well, for there will be none who gets in there who hasn't had his basic training — and knows how to handle his rifle as well as he does his scales and cancellation machine.

Caesar and Hitler

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH— You wouldn't believe it, but the Latin course in Winchester-Thurston girls' school here is tremendously popular—all because Anna Mary Gerwig, one of the instructors, is giving Caesar a modern parallel in Hitler.

Caesar, like Hitler, started his conquests on small, unarmed nations, Miss Gerwig says. The path of his legions in Helvetia was smoothed by Orgetorix, an early-version Quisling. The Helvetians burned villages and grain fields before the advancing Romans, just as the Russians have done.

Caesar also built a "Maginot Line," says Miss Gerwig, a 19-mile ditch and wall along the Rhone river, with "pillbox" forts at intervals.

The Turps

Rationing of Canned Goods [illegible]
Ethel's Pop a Fighting Hope [illegible]
Peerless Home-Baked Beans.

By DAMON RUNYON

Ethel Turp Writes from Brooklyn:

DEAR SIR: Last night I said to my pops that they are cutting us off [illegible] canned goods because my husband Jo[illegible] and my pops said, daughter, that is [illegible] the nicest words since this war began.

He said that is really wonderful [illegible] maybe I will be able to get something around the house and put my stomach back [illegible] again. Your moms will have to dig [illegible] skillet and the old pots and pans [illegible] to cook [illegible] when we were first [illegible] and start in on me that good old food [illegible] served at me before she found out [illegible] canned grub.

He said, you take something like baked [illegible] bean. Your moms used to soak a batch of [illegible] raw white beans quite awhile and then [illegible] they got good and soft and [illegible] them in a big fat pan and bake them [illegible] and [illegible] in this world ever tasted [illegible] beans like them. All the guys I worked [illegible] were jealous of me because of those [illegible] a few years ago she discovered that [illegible] easier for her to grab a can opener [illegible] open a can of baked beans from the [illegible] and heat them up a little bit and dump [illegible] on my plate.

He said, daughter, I haven't had a [illegible] call real baked beans in 10 years and [illegible] the same way with other vegetables [illegible] didn't mind so much until one day she [illegible] home with some canned baked chicken and [illegible] then I really hollered because your moms [illegible] bake a chicken better than anybody that ever lived when she is willing.

I said, pops, please let me get in a word edgeways, will you? I said, those canned things saved moms a lot of work and you should not complain about them after she spent most of her life hanging over a hot stove cooking for you, especially when the canned things are the very best things that can be made and some of them taste better than things that are cooked at home.

He said, who do they taste better to? I said well, my Joe liked canned things if they would save me a lot of work and my pops said, that the younger generation that hasn't got any taste for anything anyhow. Daughter, I must as well tell you that I have been greatly disappointed in your moms the past 10 years for the way she has neglected her cooking because she could get it in cans. I would hate to see a picture of my stomach.

JUST then my moms came in and said, what have you two been talking about? You look very serious and my pops said, Ethel has been telling me about how they are cutting off the canned goods on us and I was just saying that now you can get out that old skillet and those old pots and pans and do tricks with them. My moms said, oh, is that so? I am to go back into slavery again, am I?

My pops said, no, just back into cooking as my moms said, what's the difference? But all right. I'll get out that skillet and those pots and pans if you will guarantee to find something to put in them to cook. My pops said, what do you mean by that? She said you go out tomorrow and do the shopping and you will see what I mean.

Yours truly,
ETHEL TURP

Grownup Babies

By SPOON RIVER SAM

If grownups start cutting baby teeth and saying nursery rhymes, it won't surprise me now.

Some of 'em have been raiding baby food in the grocery store, and there ain't a baby in the house at all.

We should of knowed that would happen, on account food for babies costs less ration points.

That's people for you. Always looking out for No. 1.

Why I know one middle aged couple that always hated kids but now they're trying to adopt three, providing they're 15 and never heard of coffee so's they'll have more brew for theirselves.

But imagine a big 200-pound man eating babies' mixed vegetables so's he'll have more points for fruit juice. He ought to be somewhere in the Solomons with a big part of him sticking out of a foxhole.

Canned dog food don't cost any points, so don't be surprised if people start eating that too. You'd think some already have, the way they bark and growl over rationing.

So They Say

WANT TEETH IN GAMBLING LAW

Toledo Ministers Aim To Drive Numbers Racket from City.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 24 — Three Toledo clergymen appealed to the legislature last night to put more teeth in the gambling laws so the "numbers" racket could be eradicated in their city.

After they appeared before the house of representatives judiciary committee, however, another Toledoan testified the police of his city arrested gamblers under a city ordinance that was much less severe than the state law.

By this procedure, said William Miller, representative of a group of cigar stores, the city is enabled to keep all the fines it collected; whereas if the arrests were made under state law, the city would have to divide the fines with the state.

The maximum penalty for selling tickets in a scheme of chance under the state law is a $500 fine and six months' imprisonment.

Penalty More Severe

The proposed new legislation would make vendors of lottery tickets liable to a $1,000 fine and three years in prison for their second offense. Promoters of a numbers racket would be liable on a second conviction to a $1,000 fine and seven years' imprisonment.

The judiciary committee will decide tonight whether to recommend the anti-gambling bill for passage.

The house yesterday passed bills enabling old age pensioners to do casual work without losing their pensions and authorizing Lake Erie commercial fishermen to use either spreader bars or buoys to keep open their nets. The measures go to the senate.

Senate Passes Bill

The senate passed to the house a bill prohibiting the exhibition of obscene motion pictures and increasing from $50 to $200 the minimum fine for possessing or exhibiting any obscene matter.

Agree To Continue Operation of Mines

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 24—Northern Appalachian soft coal mine operators and the United Mine Workers agreed to continue the mines in operation for 30 days after April 1 on a retroactive basis. The present contract expires March 31.

Charles O'Neill, spokesman for the northern operators made the following announcement after a 90-minute meeting between the operators and the UMW, negotiating for a contract for 450,000 miners:

"We have reached an agreement at last for continuing the operation of the mines for 30 days after April 1, on a retroactive basis as suggested by the President."

Rommel's Stand Indicates Bloody Fighting Ahead

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

News that Nazi Marshal Rommel has been able by counter-attacks to restore the main axis defenses in the Mareth line of fortifications in southern Tunisia gives grim warning there will be bloody fighting before he is driven into the sea.

If almost any other axis general than the fox of the desert had been in the center of that fast closing allied trap yesterday, one would have said his position was desperate. However, the word "desperate" carries the idea of hopelessness, and I don't believe Rommel knows any such definition.

Certainly he appears to have extricated himself at least temporarily from a position of extreme peril by the resourcefulness and fierceness of his counter-attacks. The fighting on the Mareth line is said to have been heavier than anything previously experienced in the African campaign.

Situation To Date

What has happened thus far is this: Rommel had his main strength deployed behind the Mareth line. Britain's Romwellian Eighth army leader, General Montgomery, smashed through the strongest part of that line near where it was anchored on the coast. Simultaneously he sent a fast-moving mechanized column around the other end of the line, and this force swung towards the coast behind Rommel.

Thus Montgomery by his sensational daring had put his old enemy in a bag. The sack had holes in places, but still it was a sack. Meanwhile, our own General Patton was driving hell-bent for the coast with three columns which were based on Gafsa. His business was to tie up the mouth of the sack before Rommel had a chance to escape by making a run for the north. At latest reports the Nazi general was counter-attacking our column in El Guetar sector with a large tank force in an effort to keep the Yankees off his back.

But Rommel apparently had no intention of running. While details are lacking, he saved himself so well from the sack which was closing, about him that British Premier Churchill announced this allied reverse in the house of commons. It's clear that the allies have no walkover there.

Hitler's order to his Tunisian forces to fight to a finish makes clear the nature of the sacrifice he has imposed. We must be prepared to see heavy casualties on both sides.

Command Needless

Actually the fuehrer's command would seem to be rather a needless gesture towards a soldier who has served him so well. Rommel has fought a delaying action with a skill which few contemporary generals could match. That has been his job—to hold the allies in Northern Africa while his master got set in Europe—and it has been performed with so much skill he may have saved the axis from a quick collapse.

Hitler would seem to have spoken truly last Sunday when he boasted in his heroes' memorial day speech that "we have succeeded definitely in overcoming the crisis into which our army had been plunged," and that the German front in southern Russia had been stabilized. He might have added this was made possible by the way in which Rommel has kept allied forces and equipment engaged in Tunisia, thereby delaying United Nations operations against the continent and making the Nazis feel free to remove troops from western Europe for the Russian show.

Had the German right wing been torn from its anchor on the sea of Azov, an axis disaster surely would have followed.

But Rommel is doing more than serve the axis. Every day he manages to protract operations in Tunisia, thus blocking communications through the Mediterranean to the orient, he is rendering a great service to Japan. He is relieving pressure on the Nipponese and so making it easier for them to carry out operations in Burma and other zones.

It will be a great day for the allies when Rommel meets his Dunkerque.

Under direction of Prosecutor Scanlon a post-mortem was conducted Monday night by Dr. E. C. Brandt of Crestline. Results of the post-mortem were not disclosed.

Also called into the case were Anton Spaeth of the identification department of the Bucyrus police department and E. C. Fuller of Mansfield, finger print expert. Police Chief Arthur Stuckert said today no prints were found.

News accounts of the murder were withheld from newspapers Monday afternoon in the belief that Bevard was still in Bucyrus and might be captured if publicity were not given the story.

CONGRESS

portant protein substitutes for slim meat supplies, Wickard was considering an increase in the government's price support level on those crops, or a flat federal purchase to provide incentive.

Clear Deck for Tax Bill

Ceiling prices on farm products also comprised one of several tangles in the house of representatives which sought to clear the decks for a week or more of debate on taxes starting tomorrow. A vote was due on a measure prohibiting deduction of government benefit payments from farm parity prices. Another point of contention on the floor was the war security act to make death the penalty for certain acts against the nation in wartime. Debate centered around an amendment to require proof of "wilful intent" before conviction.

Despite the house's rush, however, it was expected to take time to approve the senate's version of a measure repealing the President's $25,000 salary limitation order. Differing slightly from a similar one okayed by the house, the repealer — attached to a probable veto-proof bill raising the national debt limit—was approved by the senate 74 to 3 late yesterday.

The senate, too, was busy in committee rooms. Its war investigating committee looked to the war production board and the United States steel corporation to ferret out "higher ups" responsible for delivery of substandard steel plates to the government from the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corp. plant at Irvin, Pa. After letter and testimony reports of employe - witnesses yesterday, Chairman Truman (D-Mo) said approximately five per cent of last year's steel plate shipments were below specifications.

Lewis Subpoenaed

Truman's committee also answered John L. Lewis' refusal to make a definite commitment to testify Friday on labor's responsibility for hiking war production by issuing a subpoena for him—with the threat of a contempt penalty for failure to respond. In response to a request to testify, the United Mine Workers chieftain had said he would "gladly appear" if the state of coal wage negotiations in New York permitted, but added he was unable to commit himself definitely.

The senate foreign relations committee, confronted by half a dozen resolutions aimed at insuring victory and future peace, considered creating a subcommittee to boil them down—and continued its post-war planning work with a "make haste slowly" attitude in view of possible world repercussions.

Meanwhile, as Brig. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley, presidential handyman, prepared to head into the Near and Middle East, diplomatic attention centered on a pair of problems likely to face him there—(1) How to bring about a union of resident and fighting French forces, and (2) how to apply the Atlantic charter for the first time in proposed elections for two French republics.

52 NAZI FIGHTERS KNOCKED FROM SKY

U. S. Bombers Took Heavy Toll on Vegesack Raid.

By The Associated Press

AT U. S. EIGHTH AIR FORCE HEADQUARTERS SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, March 24—United States heavy bombers knocked down 52 German fighters positively in last week's raid on Vegesack, near Bremen, plus 20 probably shot down and 23 damaged, it was disclosed today by Maj. Gen Ira Eaker.

The total of positive victims was equal to the highest previously scored in a raid on France last Oct. 7.

The Vegesack raid, Eaker said, marked an end to the "experimental" period in high altitude daylight precision bombing.

It now has been definitely established as practical without uneconomical losses.

A new phase in the Eighth U. S. air force campaign is beginning in which Eaker, commander of the air force, said "our task is to build up a force to join the RAF in a full-scale offensive on the German war machine."

American bombers now "can go to any target in Germany and beat off fighters on their way there and on the way back," he said in a press conference.

"I anticipate that we will have a big enough force by mid-summer so we won't give a damn whether they know we are coming or not. The more (fighters) they put up the more we'll knock down."

LIQUOR

even break or better compared to allotments consigned to neighboring monopoly states," the director added.

Liquor department files showed these comparisons in Ohio gallonage sales of all types of liquors: January—536,212 in 1943 against 811,027 in 1942; February (five-week period, including first week of March) — 523,688 in 1943 against 947,994 in 1942; March—98,476 in 1943 (week ended March 13 only), compared to 194,066 for complete March sales of 1942.

Two distiller sources confirmed Fisher's assertion Ohio was getting "an even break." One said its March sales to the state totaled 15,000 cases, compared to 6,000 in February.

The director scotched other reports common in the state:

Rumor—Distillers pared allocations to most states about 20 per cent of corresponding 1942 purchases but cut Ohio 35 per cent.

Fisher—"False. In fact Ohio allotments from most distillers are down more than 35 per cent, but other states are down as much or more."

Rumor—Distillers bear ill will toward Ohio's liquor department.

Fisher—"False. Ask distillers themselves."

Rumor—The state board of liquor control has directed distillers to limit advertising in Ohio.

Fisher—"False. The liquor board has nothing to do with anybody's advertising or its placement, nor has anyone else in the department. We have only basic standards with which advertising must comply. You cannot, for instance, shape advertising to lure youngsters."

Rumor—Ohio has placed restrictions on liquor salesmen.

Fisher—"False. Bona fide liquor salesmen receive without question solicitor permits which identify them to liquor retailers upon whom they call as good will envoys or to urge them to buy a particular brand."

Rumor—Distillers have encountered obstacles in trying to place new brands in Ohio.

Fisher—"False. For over a year any new brand has been welcomed with open arms. We require only that the merchandise pass the state analysis. This is necessary for the public's protection. Tell me where I can buy a new brand of good liquor and I'll do it. In former years the department accepted new brands cautiously, however, so that Ohio would not be caught with a large stock of unpopular liquor on hand. But those days are gone for the duration."

Rumor—Ohio allotments have been trimmed because distillers find better markets elsewhere.

Fisher—"False. Legitimate suppliers have no better market than Ohio. An unscrupulous broker might take advantage of a type of black market in open (non-monopoly) states by selling ostensibly at established ceiling prices but secretly receiving a bonus on each case sold. Monopoly states don't do business that way."

3 BLOWN TO BITS IN OXYGEN BLAST

By The Associated Press

CADIZ, O., March 23—A truckload of liquid oxygen cartridges exploded four miles west of here yesterday, blowing three men to bits, splintering the vehicle and ripping a crater 20 feet deep and 40 feet wide in the ground.

The blast, which occurred when the truck ran off U. S. highway 250 and upset, scattered all that was left of the vehicle—small pieces of debris—over half a mile, shattered windows in the vicinity and knocked a man out of bed several hundred yards away.

Deputy Sheriff Donald Tope identified the victims, all of whom were riding in the truck, as William Nelson, 22, of Steubenville; Leonard Bake, 22, of Smithfield and Roy Marker, 18, of Bloomingdale.

The truck was owned by the Ohio Lox Co. of Smithfield. It was hauling 80 cartridges for a Hanna Coal Co. mining operation.

Lloyd Cope of Cadiz, an employe of the Coal Co. who was following the truck in his automobile, said he knew it would explode when it left the highway.

"I knew it would blow up," he said. "I ran from my car and saw a great cloud of smoke over the truck and one light-haired fellow come out and run to the middle of the road. I dove under my car just before the explosion. After it was over I didn't see that fellow anymore."

WAR WORKER KILLED

REDS CLING TO DONETS BASES

Beat Back Efforts of Germans To Force Crossing in North.

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, March 24—The Red army clung tenaciously today to its positions on the northern Donets river, beating back every effort of the Germans to establish bridgeheads on the eastern bank, and on the central front Soviet troops pressed on toward Smolensk, capturing more settlements in their advance.

The Germans crossed the Donets river in force east of Belgorod last night, but the midnight communique reported they were driven back from a town they had seized on the eastern side of the river.

There have been no indications such a mass crossing has been repeated during the last few hours although there have been more attempts.

The Soviet noon communique said the Red army on the western front continued its offensive, capturing several villages and wiping out a force of German rapid-fire riflemen surrounded in a forest north of Dukhovschino.

The Russians also were reported to have taken several other settlements in other sectors of their push toward Smolensk and to have seized a tactically important line.

U. S. FORCE PROVES IT'S A TOUGH GANG

By The Associated Press

WITH THE UNITED STATES FORCES IN SOUTHERN TUNISIA, March 23—(Delayed)—"We're a hell of a gang to tangle with. Just follow us and see."

Adolf Hitler's panzers learned those were more than words in a song to an embattled United States infantry division which in the yellow desert mountains and in a flower - studded valley smashed back the Nazi attempt to break through at El Guetar from the Gabes bottleneck.

After knocking out more than 30 of a force of some 100 German tanks, including 52-ton Mark VI's thrown against them, United States infantry rangers' anti-tank and artillery units held stubbornly to the rock-walled foxholes despite one of the most sustained day-long artillery and air bombing attacks put on by the Germans in the Tunisian campaign.

The engagement was on a grand scale, with the American infantry camped in the mountains a few miles east of El Guetar, a desert oasis. The Germans were compelled to try to break through on the ridges and down in the valley while under a deadly counter artillery fire.

The Germans failed and that failure—for they threw in everything they had—is a measure of greatness of the spirit forged in battle by the United States army which is growing more powerful every day.

FOUR TEAMS IN WIDE OPEN BATTLE FOR CAGE CROWN

Lima Central, with No Home Games in 20 Years, Vies for Title.

By FRITZ HOWELL

[illegible] team which has played [illegible] games in 20 years. Many [illegible] Ferry.

[illegible] team which has won the championship twice in four trips [illegible] the tourney—Newark.

[illegible] team which has played the [illegible] to 18 consecutive [illegible] title.

[illegible] squads set for [illegible] Thursday [illegible] Ferry, Saturday afternoon, and Newark and Middletown meet Martins Ferry in the night.

Wide Open Setup

It looks like a wide open setup as the curtain on the 23d Class A starters tangle, but if you like to figure the favorites from the "dope and data," here's the dope:

Lima Central vs. Canton McKinley—Lima's all-veteran team has won 17 and lost five scoring 529 points to 792 for the foe, an offensive average of 42.5 against the opposition's 36. Jack Maisch, six feet one inch star, paced the team with 193 points in 16 regular season games. Team averages over six feet. Team has no home court and has been a traveling quintet for 20 years. Of five defeats, two were by single point and two to teams which ended regular season unbeaten—Defiance and Martins Ferry. The Limas could settle some old scores in this tournament, for Canton McKinley beat Central to keep it out of the 1931 finals, and Martins Ferry nosed Lima out 33-32 in the opening round in 1941, the Ferrians going on to take the title. Lima and Canton McKinley played one common foe this year, Central beating Mansfield 50-39 while McKinley did it by 56-52.

Canton McKinley, with four veterans from last year and a fifth who saw two years of foreign service before transferring to the Bulldogs, has won 22 and lost two, scoring 1097 against 757 for the foe, the averages being 45.7 against 31.5, each better than Lima's. Forward Dick Hamerstrom and Center Bruce Fisher are listed two of the outstanding players in the East, Hamerstrom scoring 328 points in 22 games. Team averages just a mite under six feet and plays on a shifting man-to-man defense which has been a specialty. "Rip" Bratek, McKinley coach, played on Dover's 1927 championship team, coached his alma mater to the 1933 title and to the 1937 semi-finals. This is his third McKinley team to reach the finals — but McKinley has failed to win the title in 10 tries.

No Regulars Back

Newark and Martins Ferry—Newark's Wildcats, with not a regular back from last year, and with a new coach, have won 24 and lost two, both to Dover. The team has scored 1223 for a 48.9 average, against 743 for a 29.9 average for the foe—best defensive mark in the tourney. Fred Schaus, forward is one of the state's outstanding stars and he stands six feet four. Newark has a zone defense which few teams have been able to get through, only three teams getting more than 40 points, Dover doing it twice and Columbus Central hitting 42 to lose by a point in the district meet. Wildcats, in four previous trips to the tourney, won the title in 1936 and 1938, the first crown coming after the club entered the eliminations with only nine wins in 19 starts.

Martins Ferry, paced by All-Ohio Forward Ed Sterling, has roared to 24 straight victories and is the only unbeaten class A team left in the state. The Ferrians rely on high scoring to win, for the opposition has scored 1114 points in the 24 games for a 46.4 average. However, the Ferry team has counted 1460 for a 60.8 average. Ferry won the title in 1941, in one of its two trips to the big classic. Floyd Baker is the coach, and his five-year record at the river town is one of the state's best.

There they are—take your pick.

"Here Thursday"

Farmer Jones, the pig raising grappler from Montgomery County, Ark., will wrestle Rufus Jones, the colored star from New York in the two-hour main event at the Marion Armory, Thursday night. It should turn out to be the season's top match as both men are well known in Marion and it will be a battle between the hard head of Rufus versus the flying feet of the Farmer.

The one-hour semi-final brings together two of the country's top names in the heavyweight class, Fred Carone and Morris Shirpo. Fred is New England's champ, while Shirpo has met such top men as Jim Londos, Jim Browning and a host of others.

The one-fall opening at 8:30 will be between Johnny Vansky, about the meanest man in wrestling, and the game's fastest matman, Maurice LaChappell. Advance layaways can be made by calling Markert & Lewis Cigar Store. No advance in prices.—Adv.

Inside the Outside: While Branch Rickey was holding his fireside chat at Bear Mountain yesterday he remarked he thought the Giants would get Nick Etten, over whom the Phillies and Yankees have been arguing... Rickey, who has been advising Bill Cox a bit, apparently figures the first baseman will be returned to Philadelphia and then will be traded again, possibly for Joe Orengo... Bill Cane has no intention of letting the Hambletonian go to Cleveland, even though most of the good horses will be there... Instead, he's adding some $20,000 worth of races to the three-day program at Goshen, making a total of nearly $100,000.

Help, Help! — Earl Ruby of the Louisville Courier-Journal tells this one about Emerson Woodward, the wealthy Texas horseman who likes to get into old clothes and mingle with the boys who have to hustle for a buck... Woodward dropped in on Trainer Roscoe Goose at the Churchill Downs stables one day, looked over the horses and talked a while... As he disappeared, Claude Hawkins, Roscoe's assistant who had been watching Woodward closely, remarked: "I don't know what that bird wants around here, but if it's a job, you can tell him I'm well satisfied with the place myself."

BOUDREAU ORDERS TWO-A-DAY DRILL FOR INDIAN SQUAD

Morning, Afternoon Sessions Coming When Weather Permits.

By The Associated Press

LAFAYETTE, Ind., March 24—The Cleveland Indians are to engage in two-a-day workouts whenever weather permits, Manager Lou Boudreau announced today.

A morning practice indoors will be followed by an afternoon session on the field as the Tribe pilot is said on the benefits the squad has obtained from activity under the protecting roof of the steam-heated field house of Purdue university.

The Redskins took their first open-air workout yesterday and arranged for another practice today. The outdoor program consists chiefly of a long batting drill, with the pitchers doing the running in the outfield. More than half of the 14 hurlers on the squad took their turns at pitching to the hitters.

Second Baseman Ray Mack was absent from camp today. He learned he had been reclassified 1-A by his draft board and left for Cleveland to ascertain when he is likely to be called for military service.

Club President Alva Bradley and Vice President Roger Peckinpaugh were interested spectators as the Tribe drilled.

"Wouldn't it be funny," Bradley mused after inspecting the Purdue layout, "if this war was the end of spring training in the south?"

Weatherly To Fill Joe DiMaggio's Shoes

By The Associated Press

ASBURY PARK, N. J., March 24—The littlest fellow on the New York Yankees is going to fill the biggest pair of shoes on the club this season.

These are the important brogans Joe DiMaggio left behind in center field when he was measured for a pair of pug-nosed G. I. "dog-kennels," and roly poly Roy Weatherly, who is particularly keen at having "escaped from Cleveland," has been tabbed by Marse Joe McCarthy as the Yanks' center gardener.

On one side of him, naturally, will be Charley Keller in left field, if and when King Kong and the front office get together on terms. But right field, where the departed Roy Cullenbine roamed the latter part of last year, is so wide open the boys wouldn't be surprised if three of the Marx Brothers are assigned to the job as a team.

And if you think right field is uncertain for the American league champions, you might say the only thing definite about the infield is that there will be an infield.

There have been more combinations mentioned for the inner defenses than your ration book has points. For instance, you hear that Joe (the Flash) Gordon may be shifted from second to shortstop if George Stirnweiss, the base-stealing whiz, doesn't make good. And another rumor is that if Nick Etten is returned to the Phillies by Commissioner K. M. Landis, Ossie Grimes, the handy-man from Cleveland, will play both first and third, making the throw from the hot corner on those smoky grounders and then dashing over to first to make the catch and putout.

As things stand now, McCarthy said today he would start his frozen grapefruit circuit games with Etten on first, Gordon on second, Stirnweiss at short and Bill Johnson, up from Newark, on third, but this is subject to change without notice since the Yanks have had only one outdoor drill up to now.

Doc Spears Will Take Maryland Grid Job

By The Associated Press

COLLEGE PARK, Md., March 24—Clarence W. (Doc) Spears, one of the outspoken proponents of straight football, will succeed Clark (T-Formation) Shaughnessy as head coach of the University of Maryland eleven.

Spears will take over his duties April 1. Beside tutoring the gridders, he will be in charge of the student health program, Maryland President Dr. H. C. Byrd said.

The new old liner coach comes from the University of Toledo, where he was director of athletics and head football coach. Toledo has suspended athletics for duration of the war.

T-BONE STEAKS PUT PLENTY OF PUNCH IN RED BATTING DRILL

McKechnie Turns Heavy Guns Loose at Bloomington, Ind., Training Park.

By The Associated Press

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., March 24 — Give those caring-to-go Cincinnati Reds outdoor practice and T-bone steaks, and they'll put on a demonstration comparable to a bonus check day's celebration.

The Rhinelanders evidenced this yesterday as they hopped through one of the snappiest drills of northern spring training, displaying definite progress in the hitting department.

Frank Kelleher, standout of the International league's offensive department part of last season but slightly unsensational when he roamed the Cincinnati outfield, had onlookers' eyes popping out with his heavy clubbing. Observers were certain many of the blows would have cleared Crosley Field's left and center field walls.

Eddie Miller, Bert Haas and Heinie Mueller also weighed in with some good plate efforts.

The entire team, batless or otherwise, had exceptional "plate" success at the sound of the dinner bell, winding up their good day's workout with tasty steaks.

Manager Bill McKechnie announced an intra-squad game for Saturday.

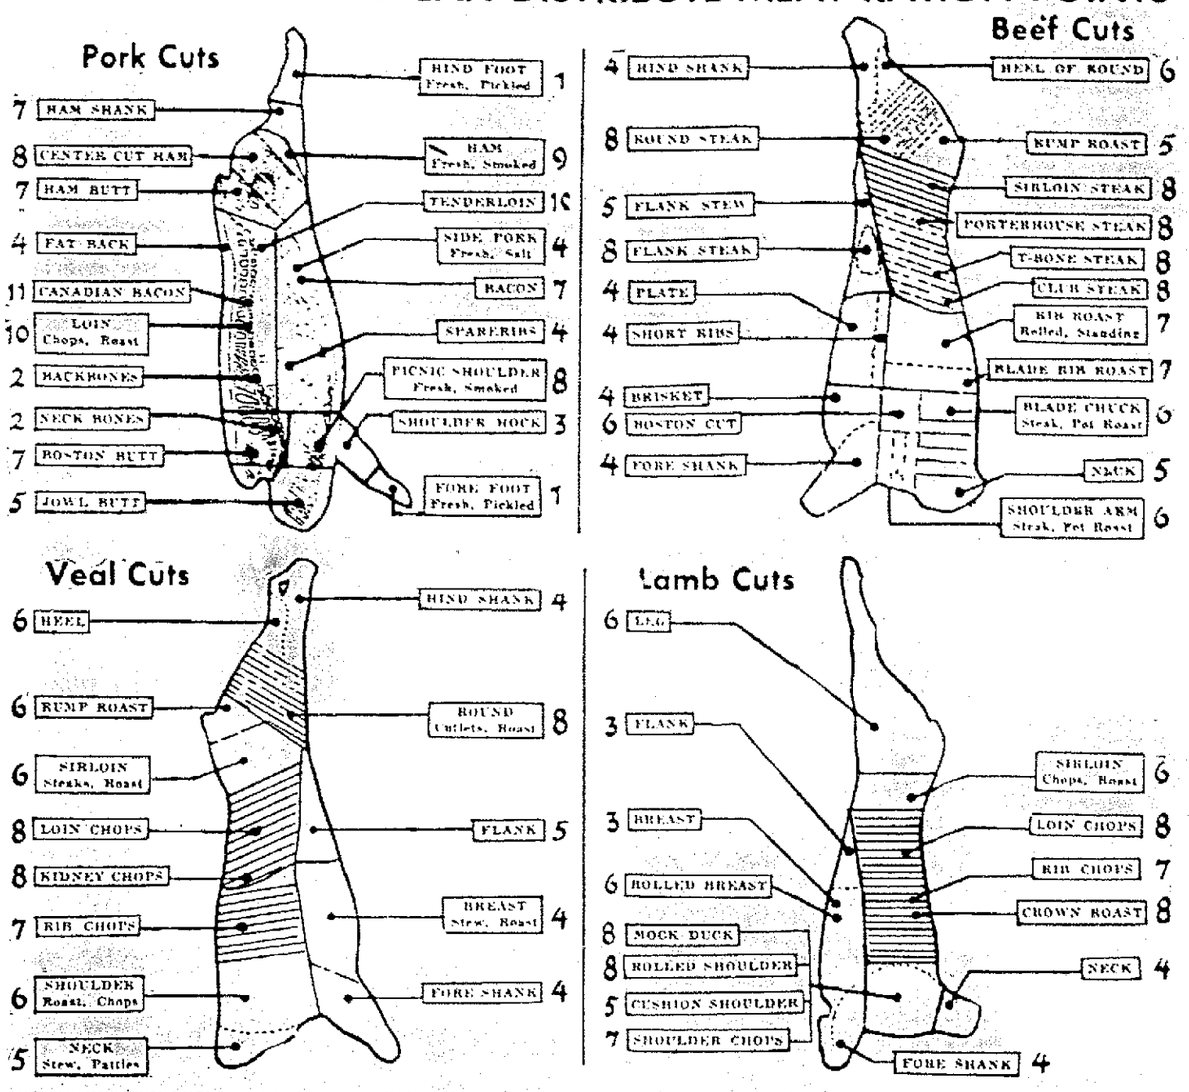
SHOWS HOW YOU CAN DISTRIBUTE MEAT RATION POINTS



IF HOUSEWIVES THOUGHT that budgeting of their ration points for canned goods was a task, they may find meat rationing even a little more confusing because the 16 points allotted each person every week must be distributed among meat, butter, cheese and cooking oils. This chart shows how much a pound of each cut of lamb, beef, pork and veal will cost in points. Careful study of it will help the budgeting of the family's weekly point allowance and simplify transactions at the butcher shop. (International)

Universal Cooler Leads in Playoff of Y. M. C. A. Loop

Universal Cooler took a one-game lead in the Y. M. C. A. Industrial basketball league playoffs championship at the Y last night by defeating U. S. A. Local 1947, 28-23.

Tied 7-7 at the end of the first quarter, Universal Cooler pulled away to a 15-11 lead at the half and 21-15 at the end of the third period.

Dwight Ruby, former Harding High and Ohio Northern university cage star, paced the winners with 10 points. Darrell Roseberry sparked the union team with nine counters.

In a preliminary game Commercial Steel won a 39-24 decision over the Fairfield Engineering Co. team. Both teams operated in the industrial league during the regular season. Murphy rammed in 20 points to pace the victors.

The second game of the title playoff will be played Thursday night at 8 at the Y. There will be no preliminary for this game, Marion Mewhorter, league secretary, said today. Referees for the game will be Earl Reed and Ken Frayer.

Co. H To Enroll New Members Next Month

Map work in preparation for outdoor drill at Crystal Lake park on Sunday, April 4, was conducted at a drill meeting of Co. H Tuesday night. Plans also were furthered for the company's training period at Camp Zaleski in July. It was announced that a group of candidates is being enrolled for enlistment in the company next month.

A chicken dinner will be a feature of the drill at Crystal Lake park. Because of the illness of six of the men the attendance at the drill meeting did not reach the quota of 50, the number required to receive the award for highest attendance in the Second regiment for March.

Court of Honor Held by Scout Troop No. 1

A court of honor and parents night program was held Tuesday night by Boy Scout Troop No. 1, sponsored by Marion Lodge of Elks. The court of honor was declared open by Karl W. Konkle, chairman of the troop committee, and an impressive candlelight service was in charge of assistant scoutmaster Robert Montague. Tenderfoot awards were presented to Jack Cudd, Richard Rhoads and Richard Watters by scoutmaster Loy D. Rhoads.

Second class awards were presented to Boyd Wise and Harold Patterson by Committeeman Owen Siffritt.

First class award was presented to Ronald Strawser by neighborhood scout commissioner Donald Sloan.

Merit badges were presented by A. L. Thomasson, exalted ruler of the Elks, to the following boys: Verland Rorick, safety; Don Montague, machinery, woodworking, safety, firemanship, mechanical drawing; Bill Byrd, machinery and swimming; Ted Rhoads, safety, machinery, metal work and first aid.

Star awards were presented by W. E. Orcutt, chairman of area advancement committee, to Don Montague and Ted Rhoads. Each Star Scout in turn presented his mother with a miniature star pin.

The presentation of scout awards was followed with a talk by Albert May, principal of Harding High school. He spoke on the subject, "What Is Your Name?"

Other Scouters present were Hugh May, area scout executive, R. M. Miller, troop committeeman and area scout commissioner. Movies of the Scout Trail of Citizenship were shown by Cecil Gabler, principal of Vernon Heights Junior High school. Following the meeting a hobby and handicraft display was viewed by the parents.

Nazis Close Holes in Mareth Line against the west side of the Gabes bottleneck 10 miles below El Hamma airport. El Hamma is 20 miles due west of Gabes.

Farther north, tank-led U. S. troops under Lieut.-Gen. George S. Patton Jr., were only about 29 miles from the sea at the nearest point, field reports said.

The armored forces of Gen. Patton also repulsed a German counterattack in a tank battle east of El Guetar on the southerly road out of Gafsa toward the sea and Rommel's communications with northern Tunisia, the communique said.

The American troops, who held their positions, destroyed a number of tanks and took more than 200 German prisoners.

Patton's unit on the northerly road from Gafsa through Maknassy also took some prisoners and made slight advances toward the east against stiffering resistance.

The Italian high command said today that 40 allied tanks had been destroyed in fierce fighting which was continuing in central and southern Tunisia and said 170 allied prisoners had been taken.

(Bone and Philippeville were bombed by axis planes, the communique said, and Messina in Sicily was raided by 30 American planes which caused "serious damage" to buildings and killed 10 persons and injured 32. Two more persons were killed by machine-gunning of trains in Sicily, the Italians said).

Throughout yesterday allied air armadas smashed at troops and tanks of the enemy concentrated around Zarat, six miles northeast of Mareth.

Heavy Air Action

Heavy air action also was reported in northern Tunisia.

In the 24 hours of aerial operations, it was announced, the enemy lost at least six planes while the allies lost eight.

With the fortified line penetrated at its strongest part along a two-mile wide corridor along the coast near Zarat, where the Eighth army crossed the formidable Wadi Zigzaou and established a bridgehead on the opposite side, Rommell apparently was concerned about a junction between the wide-sweeping British flanking force and the oncoming Americans.

The British armored units which by-passed the Mareth fortifications had sung behind Rommel to within 10 miles of the road junction of El Hamma, putin them within 40 miles of the American troops moving southward from Gafsa through El Guetar pass.

Rommel thus faced a situation fraught with peril and there appeared little doubt the most critical hour of the African campaign was approaching. Some observers thought a show-down might come within 36 hours.

Like a cornered tiger, Rommel still was a very dangerous foe, as evidenced by his risky gamble against the well-placed American artillery on the heights on both sides of the southern road from Gafsa toward the Mediterranean.

Formation after formation of allied fighters and bombers swooped over the El Guetar sector to harass Rommel's counter-attack against the Americans, for which he was said to have massed about 50 tanks.

Marion's First Woman Theater Manager Named

Mrs. James MacDonald of 240 East Church street will take over management of the Marion theater on West Center street late this week, becoming Marion's first woman theater operator.

George E. Planck, manager of the Palace theater and district manager of the Northio Theater Corp., announced the appointment today. Mrs. MacDonald, who before her marriage was Miss Margaret Thacker, daughter of Mrs. Nancy McGown of East Church street, has been employed at the Palace theater for the last four years.

Mrs. MacDonald's husband is stationed at Miami Beach, Fla., where he is enrolled in an Army air corps training school. He was inducted into the Army Jan. 21. Her brother, Second Lt. Fred Thacker, before entering service was assistant manager of the Palace theater. He is now stationed at Pyote, Tex.

In taking over management of the Marion theater, Mrs. MacDonald succeeds James V. Lamorte, who has resigned to take a theater position in Philadelphia.

LEGION SPONSORING YOUTH TRAINING

Urges Public Support for Military Drill Program.

A youth victory program was emphasized at a meeting Tuesday night of Bush-Mercer post of the American Legion at the Legion Dugout on South Vine street. Chaplain R. W. Brown stressed the importance of the program and urged full support, co-operation and assistance by the preliminary drill training, especially of youths about to be inducted into the service.

It was reported that a majority of the schools of Marion county have begun the training or are preparing to start soon.

Legion members will supervise the drill work with the cooperation of the local school authorities under the direction of the federal government. Youths interested in receiving the voluntary free training should contact their principal or teacher for further information.

Chief Petty Officer John J. Dugan, Naval recruiting officer here, gave a discussion of the purposes and requirements by the WAVES and SPARS and stressed the need for volunteers.

First Vice Commander Jewel Ralston reported a membership to date of 243 and that the membership drive was still in progress.

Reports from the Sixth district conference held at Columbus on March 21 were given by the committee that attended. The reports included the launching of the Legion post war readjustment planning program for the nation as outlined by State Commander Martin V. Copley, the small arms and ammunition drive and the responsibility to the state and nation of the Legion in the prosecution of the war.

During the social period in which the wives and friends of the Legion were present, pictures of aircraft and Navy equipment were shown by Chief Petty Officer Dugan. After the pictures recordings of speeches at a veterans' dinner last week for Miss Hallie Houck who entered Marine service Tuesday, were played.

K. OF C. TO HONOR MEN IN SERVICE

Honor Roll To Be Dedicated at Meeting March 30.

Plans were made for dedication of the honor roll, March 30, at Moira hall at a meeting of Marion Council No. 671, Knights of Columbus, Tuesday night. There will be a speaker and program.

In compliance with a letter from Walter Marnell of Delaware, district deputy, the following officers were appointed to fill vacancies made by members entering the armed forces: Charles Gallaher, outside guard, succeeding Richard Moran; Ray Deininger, inside guard, succeeding Robert Cochran; Raymond Cornely, recording secretary, succeeding William Daugherty. The following names were added to the honor roll: Thomas Dunn, Joseph Werley, Edward McKinney, Richard Knight and Donald Norris.

Reports were given on plans for the 25 million dollar war bond drive to be sponsored by the national council in April in celebration of founder's month. A meeting of the local committee of which Rev. Father William J. Spickerman is chairman, will be held Friday night. Announcement was made of a meeting at Kenton April 4 when the major degrees will be conferred. The Marion council will have candidates and also take part in the work.

QUOTES DICTIONARY

By The United Press

LOS ANGELES—When neighbors complained to the police of the presence of a chimpanzee in the back yard of Joseph L. Lindenbaum, the latter produced a Noah Webster dictionary and a copy of the city ordinance which requires a permit for keeping wild animals only. Lindenbaum quoted Webster as defining a domesticated animal as a tame one. He insisted his chimpanzee is a tame animal and the chimpanzee is still occupying his back yard.

LEGAL NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that on the twentieth day of March, 1943, the Court of Common Pleas of Marion County, Ohio, in case No. 26210 wherein the undersigned, Robert A. Kelly, was appointed receiver of the partnership composed of Laurence Hollis, Elizabeth Hollis, and Gayle Bardon known as Faultless Cleaners and Dyers on January 12, 1943, made and entered an order pursuant to the terms of which all persons, firms and corporations having claims or demands against said receiver or against the partnership composed of Laurence Hollis, Elizabeth Hollis, and Gayle Bardon known as Faultless Cleaners and Dyers are requested to present their claims in writing to said receiver on or before the third day of April, 1943, under penalty of having their claims not so presented disallowed, a copy of which order follows and is published by said receiver pursuant to the terms thereof.

Robert A. Kelly, receiver of the partnership composed of Laurence Hollis, Elizabeth Hollis, and Gayle Bardon known as Faultless Cleaners and Dyers, 132 East Center Street, Marion, Ohio.

ORDER

In the Court of Common Pleas of Marion County, Ohio, Case No. 26210.

Laurence Hollis, Plaintiff, vs. Elizabeth Hollis, et al., Defendants.

This cause coming on to be heard upon the application of the receiver filed herein, on consideration thereof and for good cause shown, it is ordered that:

All persons, firms or corporations having claims or demands against the partnership composed of Laurence Hollis, Elizabeth Hollis, and Gayle Bardon known as Faultless Cleaners and Dyers or against this receiver are required, on or before the third day of April, 1943, under penalty of hereafter having said claims disallowed in the discretion of the Court, to file the same with Robert A. Kelly, receiver herein, which said claims or demands shall be supported by affidavit and shall set out the amount and nature of any security or lien held by the claimant or to which the claimant is entitled, and also any claim to preference in payment from the assets in the hands of the receiver.

It is further ordered that said receiver shall as soon as conveniently possible, after the twentieth day of March, 1943, give notice once a week for two consecutive calendar weeks in a newspaper published and of general circulation in Marion, Ohio, and shall also give not less than ten days notice by mail to all creditors and claimants of whose names and addresses he may be informed.

It is ordered that said receiver shall as soon as conveniently possible after the third day of April, 1943, report to the Court a list of all such claims as may have been presented to him.

(signed) Hector S. Young,
Judge.

STOCKS OPEN SLOW TODAY

Recent Uptrends Checked in Profit Cashing; Cheap Issues Popular.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 24—Major industrials, off to a slow start, assumed stock market leadership again today and continued recent uptrends although checked at times by profit cashing. Volume was swelled by dealings in low-priced utilities.

Prime Minister Churchill's announcement Nazi forces in Tunisia had offset by counterattacks much of earlier British gains was a sobering influence. From other fronts war news was more encouraging.

Bonds were mixed and commodity prices held about steady.

Stocks leaning forward included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Goodrich, U. S. Rubber, Western Union and New York Central.

Twentieth Century-Fox was rather active on the upside and drew attention to amusement shares with its 1942 net profit of $10,600,000, equal to $8.30 a common share, against $4,921,926 or $2.03 a share in 1941.

To Recruit Women In Auxiliary Services

Women of Marion and Marion county will have an opportunity to learn about entering auxiliary Navy and Coast Guard service Friday night when a recruiting stand will be set up in Uhlet's department store, Chief John J. Dugan of the local Naval recruiting office, said today. Chief Dugan was granted permission to make a space near the main entrance of the store headquarters for the service and he will be stationed there from 6 p. m. until closing time.

TRADING MODERATE BUT PRICES FIRM

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, March 24—A strong undertone prevailed in the grain pits today and, although trading was of only moderate proportions, wheat advanced about a cent at times. Rye was up a similar amount and May oats, ahead a major fraction, moved to a new seasonal high.

Cash oats were in heavy demand, No. 1 white selling as high as 68¼ cents a bushel, a new peak in the local market since 1928.

Foreign War Veterans on Blu Net Saturday

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 24 — The Veterans of Foreign Wars are going on the air for the twelfth time Saturday night with their annual "Hello, America" born in a radio salute to the nation. The program will be carried by the Blu network at 11:15.

A feature is the administering of the VFW oath of obligation to an estimated 25,000 overseas veterans of both world wars who are to be gathered at listening posts all over the country.

The Wake Up America forum on the Blu Sunday afternoon is to consider the manpower problem for which the speakers are Sen. W. Lee O'Daniel of Texas and Rep. John Sparkman of Alabama... With the CBS Country Journal shifting time to the later spot of 2:05 Saturday afternoon, Secretary Claude Wickard is the guest in a discussion of farm production.

Poll Favors Active Role for U. S. in Post-War Era

By GEORGE GALLUP

Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., March 24—Senator [illegible] which would have the U. S. take the initiative in organizing a United Nations [illegible] war ends, is in keeping with the majority opinion of America people at this time.

What may be of equal significance is the fact that the majority of voters in both the Republican and Democratic parties are equally convinced that action should be taken now by the United States to see that the country participates to the fullest extent in world post-war planning. This agreement among the rank and file of both parties may mean that this issue may not be the bitter party issue that it was after the last war.

The Institute has probed the public's views on three aspects of war and post-war problems, all of which are embraced in the Ball resolution. Substantial majorities of both Republicans and Democratic voters favor all three proposals.

The American people believe that we should take steps now, before the end of the war, to get up with our allies a world organization to maintain the future peace of the world. And majorities in both parties favor formation of a joint allied war council which would plan all war operations against the Axis powers.

On the general question of whether this country should take a more active part in world affairs after the war, the public votes in favor of such a proposal by an overwhelming majority.

The resolution offered in the Senate last week by two Democratic and two Republican Senators thus reflects the same political unity on the issue as exists among the voters.

Field representatives put the following question to a cross-section of the country's voters.

[illegible] the government [illegible] steps to [illegible] with other [illegible] to [illegible] peace [illegible]

"[illegible] Congress [illegible] of Representatives [illegible] United States [illegible]

	Yes	No	No Opinion
National	64%	21%	15%
Democratic Voters	65	23	12
Republican Voters	63	28	9

The question on the post-war [illegible] was worded as follows:

"[illegible] do you think the United States, Russia, China and Great Britain should form a joint war council which would plan all war operations against the Axis powers?"

The results show again the vote of Democratic and Republican voters:

	Yes	No	No Opinion
National	74%	9%	17%
Democratic Voters	74	8	18
Republican Voters	75	10	15

Following is the question dealing with the general issue of whether this country should take a more active part in world affairs after this war.

"After this war, do you think the United States should stay out of world affairs, or take an active part in world affairs?"

	Take Active Part	Stay Out	No Opinion
National	76%	11%	13%
Democratic Voters	78	12	10
Republican Voters	76	15	9

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

War and Doctors

FOR THOSE who are having difficulty in making adjustments to the [illegible] that have already been imposed, it is worth saying that there are some medical practices which are already under the way of adjustment and will certainly go [illegible] within the [illegible]

A few years ago the medical profession was sufficient in numbers to go around to everybody. There were specialists of all kinds—in fact, more than enough of them. Today certain specialties which must continuously be available to men in the armed forces are represented in our civilian communities by less than a skeleton force of practitioners.

This is particularly true of orthopedic surgery, eye surgery and general surgery. But the chief problem in civilian work today is to supply general medical care. The general practioner, who did the routine work, has been harder hit than men in any other branch.

For comparative purposes I cite a report from a certain Massachusetts town which before the war had 87 general practitioners of whom 30 are now in military service. Compare this to the number of general surgeons, 37 before the war—of whom 9 went into military service—and it will be seen that the problem of general medical care is a pressing one. About 50 per cent of the house calls made before the war were handled by the group that has gone into service.

In view of the gasoline and rubber situations, it is evident that there will have to be organized in most communities some sort of cooperative planning for medical service. In this campaign the patient must be as considerate as the doctor; the doctor's time must be conserved and house calls kept at a minimum. The doctor's day is planned in the morning and when possible, house calls should be received before 8 a. m.

"Only urgent directions," "Do not call the doctor except when necessary" often miss the mark. Certain definite indications that the situation is urgent should be known to the public. For example pain in the chest and bloody sputum are important; abnormal bloody discharge from any part of the body is urgent; abdominal pain lasting more than a few hours is urgent.

On the other hand a head cold or general malaise are not emergencies. Neither are nervousness, fatigue, or chronic symptoms.

Perhaps the best plan suggested is a central medical bureau which can be reached at all hours. The individual at the switchboard would be experienced and would be able to tell the patient where a doctor could be reached if it is an emergency; or would put him on a waiting list if it is not. Each hospital can have a list of physicians available for calls and the hospital will undertake to send a physician if the patient cannot come to the hospital.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

"A SPLENDID performance," I told Mary, also in prison fashion. "Almost too good," I added. "Will there be another act?"

"Didn't you see the curtains on that one?" she asked. "I thought I had a good exit line."

I pondered her answer as we crossed to where Olga was seated, with her husband standing beside her. I interpreted it as meaning that if Georges reacted as she hoped he would, she would stage nothing more.

So I gave my fascinated attention to Mary as she faced her father-in-law and his regal wife. She was too good an actress, I saw, to shed her role completely on the instant, and I noted how she toned down her ebullient manner, yet kept enough of it so that she did not step out of character.

That Mary meant to keep out of Georges' way from now on I was sure, and counted on his being too engrossed with Olina to pay much attention to her.

But I guessed that she was quaking inside as her eyes met those of the elder Veritzens, expecting their grave disapproval, and was prepared for verbal censure from her father-in-law.

In a valiant attempt to forestall attack, Mary rushed into cajoling speech, punctuated with nervous giggles.

"Oh, Daddy dear," she gurgled, and I saw the corners of Philip Veritzen's mouth twitch at the salutation, which I was sure he never had heard before from Mary. "What did you think of John Hayes tonight? Wasn't he perfectly gorgeous; even better than at rehearsal?"

Her father-in-law looked down at her with twinkling eyes.

"I think you know the answer to your question before I voice it," he said. "He was better than at rehearsal. He gave a remarkable performance, and he is a God-given solution of the problem of Redfield. Steve's feminine fans will forget him in a week if Hayes takes over the role."

"Oh, boy!" she exclaimed. "I could jump up and down. I'm so glad to hear that. I'm getting so blase I didn't think I had any enthusiasm left in me, but I sure got a kick out of the way Jelin got his teeth into that role tonight."

"That is very gratifying, I am sure" her father-in-law said a bit patronizingly. Then with a quick, mirthful glance which patently surprised and disconcerted her, he put a muted question.

"Will you kindly tell me just why you staged the diabolically clever act you were pulling on over there?"

He nodded toward where Olina was talking to Georges and Noel, then went on.

"I have known for some time that you are a very good actress, my dear," he said, "but I never realized how good until a few minutes ago. What is behind it? You weren't putting on an elaborate performance like that without some good reason."

A look of chagrin swept over Mary's mobile face.

"I couldn't have been so good," she said, "if you caught on to it."

Then, after a quick look at Olga's smiling face, she whirled on Dicky, who was broadly grinning at her.

"Oh! oh!" she said almost in a whisper. "You all know! What a fool I've made of myself — for nothing."

The Stars Say—

For Thursday, March 25

JUDGING BY the lunar aspects of actuating planets, there is an exceptional opportunity for expanding the affairs in all directions, with financial and personal popularity promising growth and fruition of cherished hopes. However, there is a sign of high pressure and tension which may stimulate the energies and faculties into overdoing. Poise, good will and self-restraint may avert this.

Those whose birthday it is are on the verge of a year of outstanding accomplishment in the direction of their happiest and highest objective. But a menace of ill will and jealousy born of high tension and excess energy may prove a negative and destructive force.

A child born on this day while being energetic, impulsive and high-tensioned, yet will be efficient, ambitious and fundamentally kind.

PRETTY SLICK!—THESE CAMOUFLAGED HANGAR DOORS FORM PART OF THE OLD HOUSE—
THIS IS JUST WHAT THE DOCTOR ORDERED FELLOWS!
PHANTASMO KEPT THIS PLANE FOR EMERGENCIES! THE CATAPULT IS TO KEEP IT CLEAR OF THE TREES

WHAT DO YOU MEAN, SIR?
SOMEWHERE OFF THE COAST TRIXIE IS TRAPPED ABOARD THE DOOMED FREIGHTER, THE "WANDERER"—
GRAB THIS PLANE! YOU AND SPUD HAVE ONE CHANCE IN A MILLION OF RESCUING HER AND SAVING THAT WAR CARGO FROM DESTRUCTION—

GOSH, TILLIE, SOMEONE SEEMS TO OBJECT TO OUR REVEILLE RECORD
I CAN'T GET 'EM UP
I CAN'T GET 'EM UP
I CAN'T GET 'EM UP IN THE MORNING
AND JUST WHEN WE WERE ENJOYING IT BY NOT HAVING TO GET UP
HEY! TURN THAT THING OFF
GOOD GRIEF, TILLIE, IT'S A POLICEMAN—WE'LL HAVE TO THINK FAST
I CAN'T GET 'EM UP
I'VE A GOOD NOTION TO RUN YOU IN FOR VIOLATING A CITY ORDINANCE BY PLAYING THAT THING AT FIVE-THIRTY IN THE MORNING
SORRY, OFFICER, BUT IT'S A CASE OF HABIT. WE COULDN'T GET UP WITHOUT REVEILLE

SOPHIE, WITH SO MUCH MONEY YOU OUGHT TO TREAT US ALL TO A SWELL DINNER
TOOTS, I'M GOING TO INVEST MY $1,000.00 EVERY PENNY OF IT!
SOPHIE, THAT'S TOO MUCH MONEY TO KEEP IN THE HOUSE! YOU OUGHT TO PUT IT IN THE BANK.
I'M GOING TO DOUBLE MY MONEY SOON, COL. HOOFER, BUT DON'T ASK ME ANY QUESTIONS
I'LL HIDE MY $1000.00 IN THIS VASE UNTIL MORNING, AND THEN I'LL CARRY OUT MY PLAN TO DOUBLE IT.

Bringing Up Father

By George McManus

I AM SURPRISED TO SEE EVERY MAIL BRINGING A BATCH OF ORDERS FOR BRASSY'S SINGING PILLOWS - IF IT CONTINUES, BRASSY WILL BE RICH AND FAMOUS
I AM HAPPY TO HEAR THE GOOD NEWS, BUT I'M NOT SURPRISED - I AM SURE THE SINGING PILLOW WILL PROVE A BLESSING
EVERY DOLLAR YOU GIVE TO HELP SOMEONE SEEMS TO BE A LUCKY TOKEN
NONSENSE - ANY BANKER WOULD GLADLY FINANCE MR. BRASSY'S INVENTION
"THE DAM HAS BURST! THE GOLDEN FLOOD OF ORDERS HAS BORNE UPWARD AND ONWARD TO THE PINNACLE OF SUCCESS - BUT I REMAIN THE SAME MODEST, STRONG SILENT SYMBOL OF GENIUS AS BEFORE
